BARLOW WARS ON GAMBLING

ASK SENTIMENT OF PEOPLE ON PROPOSAL FOR SECOND JUDGE

Representatives Van
Fossan and Smith
Visit County.

BILL DRAFTED
Assembly Members
Urge Constituents to Express Views.

State Representatives W. H. Van Fossan, of Lisbon, and R. D. Smith, of Salineville, today announced that they will ascertain public sentiment before urging action by the Ohio assembly on the Southern Columbiana County Bar association's proposal for the creation of a second common pleas judgeship at Lisbon.

The bill, drafted by the lawyers, is now in the hands of Van Fossan, who has been asked by Attorney W. S. Foulks, representing the bar association, to introduce it at the present session of the legislature. Foulks conferred with Van Fossan at Columbus.

Spend Week Here.
Van Fossan and Smith, spending the week-end at their respective homes, conferred with lawyers and other citizens in East Liverpool, Salineville, Lisbon and Salem regarding the judgeship proposal.

"We shall ascertain the sentiment of the people before taking any action," said Representative Van Fossan.

Smith Requests Views of Constituents
"I do not know what action I shall take," said Representative Smith. "I wish to know how the people feel about the two-judge proposal, and I request that they write to me."

Van Fossan and Smith returned to Columbus last night for the reconvening of the legislature at 7 o'clock tonight.

Where Are His Atoms?
What Is a Gentleman?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
[The opinions expressed in the columns are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.]

JOHN J. SCHEVERS, a trapper, lay half frozen on the ice, 125 miles from any human habitation. His feet, face and hands were frozen. As he, with the temperature 50 degrees below zero, waited for death, along came an Indian, dragging a toboggan.

The Indian took him to a camp and a call for an airplane was sent out.

PILOT W. H. CLARKE and mechanic Hill, of the General Airways company, started off through a blinding snowstorm "flying blind" by compass. They took Schevers to a train. The train took him to a Quebec hospital, and he will live.

Writing that down must have interested the Angel Gabriel, who doubtless will say a good word for the two fliers, and, the Indian, who does not even get his name in the paper.

MR. EINSTEIN says he is amazed at the furor created by his recent announcement explaining the mystery of the universe, disposing of infinite time, space, etc.

He may well be amazed. Scientists of the future will be amused.

BACON, whose brain, compared with the mind of Einstein, is like a mountain compared with a mole hill, says, in his "Advancement of Learning," that the senses of man, "notwithstanding all their cavillations, are very sufficient to certify and report truth, though not always immediately, yet by comparison, etc."

WHOEVER, like Hinton, or Ouspensky says the fourth dimension is there, only the mind of man cannot understand it, or followers like Einstein say the "relativity theory" can be understood by only half a dozen men on earth, talk nonsense.

ANY one of millions can understand Newton's law of gravitation, and prove it, by the motion of planets. Any child can work the radio, because it deals with scientific fact, although we do not understand electricity.

To say that the universe is not infinite, because you cannot grasp infinity, is like a muskrat, on the shore of Lake Michigan, saying "don't talk to me about oceans, I can't even see across this lake." The universe is not infinite, says Einstein, because a ray of light turns around and comes back again. Everything goes in curves, so there is no infinity.

A LANE on a farm might come around and come back to the farm house, but that would not disprove the existence of other farms, farther on. Boats that cross Lake Michigan turn around and come back. But that does not limit the size of the earth. (Continued on page eight, Col. six)

RIVER REACHES 27-FOOT CREST SUNDAY NIGHT

Ohio is Falling One
Tenth of Foot
Hourly.

NO DAMAGE HERE

Ice Gorge Formed in Stream Near Babb's Island.

After reaching a crest of 27 feet at 9 o'clock last night the Ohio river, which threatened to reach a flood stage because of heavy rains, was receding today.

The gauge at Dam No. 8 registered 25.5 feet at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The water was falling at the rate of one-tenth of a foot an hour.

All day Sunday the river was filled with ice, coming from the upper Allegheny, where a gorge was formed early in the week.

A gorge which formed between Babb's island and the Ohio shore near the end of St. George street yesterday, attracted hundreds of persons. The ice almost bridged the island and the mainland. The main channel of the river south of the island was open throughout the day.

MRS. ELIZA HUFF, AGED 70, DIES

Mrs. Eliza Jane Huff, 70, widow of John Huff, formerly of East Liverpool, died yesterday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. R. Overholt, 707 Russell avenue, Steubenville, after a year's illness.

Mrs. Huff was born near Hookstown, Pa., August 2, 1859, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Heckathorne. In 1876, she was married to John Huff, who died five weeks ago. She was a member of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

She leaves one son, William J. Huff, and four daughters, Mrs. Pearl Elcher, Detroit; Mrs. Evelyn Merrill, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Mary McDermott, East Liverpool; and Mrs. Overholt. She is also survived by four grandchildren, James McDermott and Alvin Leroy Huff, East Liverpool, and Pearl and Alvin Merrill, Pittsburgh.

Services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Sturgis funeral home, West Fifth street, in charge of the Rev. E. G. Lewis, pastor of the Steubenville Methodist Episcopal church. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery here.

MIDLAND MILL WORKER INJURED

MIDLAND, Pa., Jan. 21.—Worthington Gunsharley, 30, millwright at the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel company's plant here, was injured yesterday morning at 11 o'clock while repairing a pipe line at the steel plant.

Gunsharley had his hand in a valve which, it is said, closed suddenly following an explosion in the line. The millwright's wrist is believed to have been fractured.

He was taken to his home, Midland avenue. He was attended by Dr. J. A. Hellrich.

BOTH MEN DIE WITHOUT WORD

Twenty-four Stunned Witnesses, Transfixed, Look on in Tomb-like Silence as Prisoners "Ride Thunderbolt."

By James L. Kilgallen.
(One of the witnesses to the execution)

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, BELLEFONTE, Pa., Jan. 21. A ghost-like figure with a dazed expression on his blanched face, shuffled into the dimly-lit death chamber here today and was quickly shunted into the electric chair. Before he could utter a word, a grotesque brown mask was drawn over his head and 2000 volts of electricity shot through his body. Before the sinister whine and the crackling sputtering sound that accompanied it had died away, he was dead. Thus ended the spectacular career of Paul Jaworski, the killer, arch bandit, stick-up man and sworn enemy of society.

Twenty-four stunned eye witnesses looked on, transfixed, in the tomb-like silence of the place as guards hurriedly brought in another prisoner, Calvin E. James, a youthful bootlegger-slayer. In the flash of an eye, he, too, "rode the thunderbolt," as they say in prison parlance.

Jaworski Slew Half Dozen Men.
Jaworski, killer of half a dozen men during his wild career, was taken across Pennsylvania, Michigan, Ohio and Illinois, paid the supreme penalty specifically for the death of Isiah Gump, a payroll guard slain in a $45,000 holdup at Mollenaur, Pa. James was electrocuted for the slaying of William Dunstan, a drug clerk, of Doylestown, Pa., over a $150 liquor debt.

Both prisoners, number 249, Jaworski, and number 250, James, died without uttering a syllable. Both men were pronounced dead four minutes after they had sat in that weird-looking contraption known as the death chair.

Dawn had just broken over the peaks of Nittany mountain, which overlooks the prison, when the official witnesses, grouped silently in the electrocution building, were told that "everything is ready—come up stairs, men."

CALL ATHLETIC UNIT MEETING

Committee reports will occupy the attention of members of the East Liverpool Athletic association at their meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A.

Members recently interviewed the board of education on a plan to renew basketball among grade school pupils. The project will be discussed by the association and, if possible, definite plans promulgated, in co-operation with the board of education.

Ticket plan for the "Boosters' night" performance, scheduled for Saturday, February 2, when the association members plan to attend the East Liverpool Canton McKinley game in a body, will be outlined by J. M. Decker, faculty manager of athletics in the high school.

POTTERS PLAN BENEFIT DANCE

A dance for the benefit of the New Castle, Pa., potters strikers will be held in the Pottery hall, West Sixth street, tomorrow night. Music will be in charge of the DeMar Miller orchestra.

Chicago is Without "Bandit Play" for Seven Hours After Police Nab 3,300 Persons in Drive

Alleged Gangsters, Gunmen, Racketeers and Thieves Arrested.

By COPELAND C. BURG
CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Chicago hung up a new record today.

Following one of the most sensational drives against crimes in America's criminal annals, in which more than 3,300 alleged gangsters, hoodlums, gunmen, racketeers, bandits and thieves were arrested a checkup revealed that no holdups or robberies of any kind occurred in all Chicago during a seven-hour period.

From midnight last night until 7 o'clock this morning Chicago was without a "bandit play" such as usually occurs almost hourly.

HOOVER LEAVES CAPITAL FOR VACATION AT MIAMI BEACH

Mrs. Hoover and Small
Personal Party go
To Florida.

ONE-MONTH REST

Six Weeks From Today
He Will Take Oath.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Herbert Hoover said farewell to the capital today.

Accompanied by Mrs. Hoover and a small personal party, the president-elect left for Miami Beach, Florida, at 10:37 o'clock on a special train on the Atlantic Coast Line.

President-Elect Applauded.
Mr. Hoover did not arrive at station until a few minutes after the scheduled departure of the train at 10:30 a. m.

A crowd of several hundred persons gathered in the concourse and applauded the president-elect.

The departure was further delayed while Mr. and Mrs. Hoover stood on the rear platform to be photographed. They waved goodbye to the crowd as the train gathered momentum and disappeared into a tunnel.

For the next month he will relax in Florida's sunshine, fish in tropical waters, begin work on his inaugural speech, and complete the personnel of the cabinet which he will take into office with him on March 4.

Six weeks from today on the windswept plaza of the capital he will raise his right hand and take the oath of office as the thirty-first president of the United States.

Half of Cabinet Settled
A president-elect he has accomplished much in Washington in a fortnight. He hopes to accomplish much more in a month away from the political pulling and hauling in Washington. He will have at least four weeks of comparative seclusion on an island in the middle of Biscayne bay where he will see only those persons he wants to see, and where his every waking moment is not caught up in the cross currents of personal contacts with politicians.

Mr. Hoover leaves Washington with half of his cabinet regarded as fairly well settled.

Andrew W. Mellon will remain as secretary of the treasury, and William M. Jardine will carry on as secretary of agriculture. The decision as to these holdovers is considered as definite and final.

In addition, three other appointments are classed in the "probable" column—William J. Donovan of New York, as attorney general; Walter F. Brown of Ohio, as postmaster general; and Louis S. Carter of Utah, as secretary of the interior. Donovan and Brown now occupy assistant's berths in the Coolidge administration. Carter, a wealthy mining engineer, has never held public office.

MISS SHAFFER, LONG'S RUN, DEAD

Miss Nancy Victorine Shaffer, 79, died last night at 8 o'clock in the home of a brother, F. M. Shaffer, Lincoln highway, near Long's Run.

She is survived by her brother, with whom she had made her home for four years, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the Calcutta United Presbyterian church in charge of the pastor, the Rev. C. R. Cheeks, assisted by the Rev. M. R. Work, of Pittsburgh.

Burial will be made in the church cemetery.

Fire Damages Coupe.
A coupe, owned by Edwin Wheeler, was damaged by fire, caused, it is believed, by a short circuit, while parked in East Seventh street near the E. & W. Tire Service shop, at 3 o'clock this morning. Firemen extinguished the blaze with chemicals.

Cancel Rotary Club Luncheon

Owing to the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Thursday night, weekly luncheon of the Rotary club, scheduled for Tuesday, has been cancelled. Club members will be given credit for attendance at the chamber meeting.

Police Say Clean-up Shows Need of Larger Force.

round-up showed that about 35 percent of the prisoners have police records. This ratio, if continued through the entire arrest list, would show more than 1,000 men with law violations already charged against them.

Poolrooms, gambling houses, cabarets, beer palaces and even "clubs" and theaters were among the places which yielded quotas in the police herding of criminals. Some night clubs and theaters, which hitherto had been immune from the usual police raiding parties, were ruthlessly invaded during the week-end fight to check Chicago crime.

Cite Last Week's Record
Police officials pointed to the period of inactivity by underworld characters as showing what would happen if Chicago, now undermanned with officers, had a police force large enough to patrol the city thoroughly.

In ugly contrast to today's peace record was last week's crime record of 102 robberies and four murders.

At the same time police commissions was suspended, at least temporarily, police officials launched another drive. They urged an immediate increase in the city's police force, asking 5,000 new policemen. That number would be about double the present police force.

Visit Poolrooms, Night Clubs, Theaters
At the same time police commissioner William E. Russell said he "was astounded" that a checkup of the persons arrested in the week-end

WOMEN READY FOR GUN DUEL

BUDAPEST, Jan. 21.—The first duel ever fought in Hungary between two women will take place here today unless the authorities intervene or the combatants take advantage of their feminine prerogative of changing their minds.

Miss Katharina Forgo, a music teacher, challenged Mrs. Anna Kovacs to a duel with foils because, she claimed, Anna insulted her.

Mrs. Kovacs retaliated with the allegation that the music teacher flirted with her husband.

The populace is awaiting the outcome of this unusual "affair of honor" with keen interest.

COOLIDGE HOST TO CONGRESSMEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—President Coolidge entertained 25 representatives at a White House breakfast today. They were:

Republicans—Leavitt of Montana, Kiehn of Pennsylvania, Parker of New York, W. T. Fitzgerald of Ohio, Smith of Idaho, Kopp of Iowa, Luce of Massachusetts, White of Maine, Morin of Pennsylvania, Robison of Kentucky, Britten of Illinois, Vestal of Indiana, Knutson of Minnesota, Bears of Pennsylvania and Elliott of Indiana.

Democrats—Sears of Florida, Huds-peth of Texas, Conner of Massachusetts, Quinn of Mississippi, Vinson and Bell of Georgia, Stevenson of South Carolina, Evans of Montana, Davis of Tennessee and Sumners of Texas.

TWO ARE KILLED ON CROSSING

VAN WERT, O., Jan. 21.—Two deaths were recorded here today as the result of an automobile-train crash last night. Police Chief W. E. Jackson, 60, died early this morning of injuries, and his daughter, Miss Datha Jackson, 25, was instantly killed.

Miss Jackson was driving her father's car.

It was struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train in the city. The car was demolished.

CANCEL ROTARY CLUB LUNCHEON

Owing to the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Thursday night, weekly luncheon of the Rotary club, scheduled for Tuesday, has been cancelled. Club members will be given credit for attendance at the chamber meeting.

SHERIFF LEADS DEPUTIES IN RAIDS IN FIVE COUNTY TOWNS

Six Slot Machines Confiscated in Unity Township.

J. H. FULTZ AIDS

Clean Bill of Health
Given Wellsville
After Visit.

A county-wide gambling clean-up in which five towns and a number of rural places were visited was launched by Sheriff William J. Barlow of Lisbon and his deputies over the week-end.

One Arrest in Wellsville.
More than two hours were spent in raiding places in Wellsville, Saturday afternoon, in which but one arrest was made. At the conclusion of the raids Sheriff Barlow expressed the opinion that "no slot machines, punch boards or other gambling devices or liquor exists in Wellsville."

Six slot machines were confiscated in Unity township and East Palestine. A few punch boards were also found in scattered places but no arrests were made. No violations were found in Lisbon, Columbiana, Leetonia or in lunch stands along the Cox highway between Salem and East Palestine, Barlow reported.

Chief of Police John Fultz joined the county officials in the Wellsville raids. Sheriff Barlow and Office Deputy James Elliott visited suspected places in the West End while deputies Gomer Lewis and George Harroff, and Fireman Orval Jarvis and Fireman Fultz made the raids in the East End.

Chester Webster Fined $100.
In a room in the Geisse building, in Main street near Third street, Wellsville, the raiders said gambling paraphernalia was found. Chester Webster admitted ownership of the equipment and was fined $100 and costs when he faced Acting Mayor Clyde Baker, Wellsville. Barlow declined to state the number of places which had been visited in Wellsville.

The slot machines found in Unity township paid money, according to the sheriff. They have been placed in storage in the courthouse at Lisbon.

Barlow today declined to say whether the "clean-up" would be extended to other parts of the county. The raids in the northern part of the county were made Friday afternoon but the news was withheld until after the Wellsville visit had been made.

Lisbon police also launched a liquor clean-up Saturday. Frank Ertolt, West Washington street, was arrested, charged with illegal possession. One bottle of liquor is alleged to have been found in his home. He will be given a hearing before Mayor Robert B. Clark tonight.

Five search warrants were issued by Mayor Clark. Nothing was found in three of the places visited while the fourth warrant was not served. The raids were conducted by Marshal George Groves and Patrolman B. F. Rollins.

COL. ELVERSON, 50, FOUND DEAD

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 21.—Colonel James Elverson, Jr., 50-year-old president and publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer was found dead in his apartment here at 7:30 a. m. today.

Death was due to heart disease, according to Dr. Herbert Carpenter, Elverson's personal physician.

Col Elverson was a well-known figure in the city's civic, business and social life. He succeeded his late father as president of the newspaper and became a member of a former governor's staff, thus acquiring the title of colonel.

BANDIT FLEES AS ALARM GOES OFF

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 21.—"Hand over $200, I'm hard up," read a note thrust into the cage of Oscar Fender, teller at the Lincoln National bank, here this morning. A hidden gun menaced the caller.

Fender reached for the currency, also letting his toe touch the burglar alarm button. As the bell clanged out its warning, the would-be hold-up man rushed from the bank and was lost in the crowds in Vine street.

VISITING PASTOR OPENS REVIVAL

The Rev. E. A. Wickham, evangelist of Jacksonburg, W. Va., is in charge of a series of revival meetings which were opened yesterday in the Church of Christ, Thompson avenue and East Sixth street. Services will be held every evening at 7:30 o'clock. The public is invited.

3 "Playing Explorer" Find Prehistoric Bones

Above, Ewing Waterhouse (right) and Wilson Esterly in mouth of "death trap" cave; bottom, skeleton of the ground sloth they discovered. The map shows prehistoric migratory trail.

"Death Trap" in Cave Near El Paso Is Hailed by Scientists.

El Paso, Tex.—When Ewing Waterhouse, Wilson Esterly, Jr., and Carlos Rushing, a trio of El Paso youths, "played" explorers recently in an old cave several miles west of this city, drive, were in Pittsburgh Friday.

Miss Marcelle Loftus, who has been ill at her home in Ohio avenue, is improving.

Edward Loftus, Ohio avenue, is visiting in Butano, N. Y.

they didn't dream that their amateur questing would result in a prehistoric "find" of paramount importance to the scientific world. Or that an entirely new theory on animal migrations millions of years ago would come into being because of their activities.

But both of these things have come true. For the skeleton of a ground sloth which the lads discovered in a terrifying deep earth trap near their homes is looked upon by the graybeards as proof conclusive of the finding of a prehistoric migratory trail which led through West Texas, down through Mexico and across the Isthmus to South America. Over it the bones of the sloth moved in vast herds, seeking cooler climates in Summer and warmer weather in Winter.

The cave in which the ground sloth's skeleton was discovered is funnel-shaped, about four feet wide at the entrance and very like a tubular fire escape. Some distance inside it empties into a "trap" which is estimated to be 300 feet deep. This terrific step-off is the key to the cave's paleontological value, for the scientists now believe that hundreds of the prehistoric monsters must have stumbled into the "trap" while passing over the migratory trail.

Excavations of the site are now under way by representatives of both the Peabody Museum of Yale and the American Museum of Natural History. In the latter phases of the careful campaign to get at the "treasure" of prehistoric bones scaffolding will be constructed in sections, lowered into the "trap" and experts will descend to evaluate the find.

and elimination improve 100% in a week!

You needn't give up rich food, nor go on a diet, for syrup pepsin is a liquid vegetable product that soon has stomach, liver, and bowels in condition to handle anything that's eaten—without distress and without fear of constipation. You don't have to purge your system with a powerful drug, but need only an occasional spoon of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to keep the whole digestion tract clean and sweet, and the bowels free from any accumulated waste. Children are healthier and happier, and elderly people have a far easier time where this ideal combination of laxative herbs and pure pepsin is fully appreciated. Dr. Caldwell first used it back in 1875. Today, no druggist is ever without this famous prescription all put up and directions enclosed. A test of this remarkable preparation is easily made, and its merits quickly demonstrated, in one's appearance and feelings. Try it and see if there is not an amazing difference in the way liver and bowels function—and in the way you feel!

Quick relief for COLDS since 1889

The voice without a cold
Let Daisy tell you: it's the voice without a cold that is the voice with a smile. And this is how she avoids the sniffles, fever, and illness which make others 'phone that they won't be down to work.
Right after every exposure, if she feels shivery, or has wet her feet, or gets that warning tickle in her throat or nose, she takes GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. She doesn't wait, not Daisy. She has learned to carry the handy white box in her purse for just such emergencies—and for headaches, too. So she nips the cold while it merely threatens, and avoids grip and flu and other serious ills which often begin with a cold.
Remember, there is only one BROMO QUININE. So it is a wise precaution to emphasize GROVE'S, when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Price 30c.

Airplane Crashes In Great Britain Stir Authorities

LONDON.—British authorities are determined to lessen the risks of mid-air smashes between aeroplanes. In future all aircraft flying over the recognized routes between London and the Continent will have to land at Croydon Aerodrome and notify the officials of the intention to be on the air route at a certain time. There is no danger in regard to the big air liners. All of these carry wireless and the presence of other craft in their part of the route is notified to them by this means. But there have been a number of cases of collisions in which private aeroplanes have been concerned.

Viennese School Chief Loses Life Exploring Caves

BERLIN.—Franz Radschueier, Viennese school director, lost his way while exploring the Frauenmauer caves, a natural subterranean labyrinth near Eisenerz, Austria, and unable to find his way out died of starvation. The tragedy has just been revealed when his body was discovered by other explorers. Up to the last minute, Radschueier kept a diary, described how his food was dwindling and his last candle melting away, and how he realized he was facing a slow, painful death in darkness.

New York State Plans to Purchase Brooms From Blind

ALBANY, N. Y.—To compel the state to purchase all mops and brooms used in cleaning public buildings from the blind is the object of a bill now before the legislature. The cleaning implements would be purchased from those organizations and institutions of the blind which receive no financial support from the state, counties or municipalities.

British Sailors Protest Ruling Banning Cats

LONDON.—Hundreds of British sailors are up in arms against an order issued by the ministry of agriculture that hereafter all cats imported into Great Britain must undergo six months' quarantine. Captains declare the new order will make it harder than ever to find crews for their vessels, because many sailors believe there is no luck in a ship without a cat, and refuse to sail without one.

REV. I. M. ELLIS ENDS NAZARENE CHURCH MEET

Evangelist Starts for His Home in Dallas,
Tex.

280 CONVERTED
Morning, Afternoon and Evening Services
Sunday.

Tired of body but happy in spirit following the preaching of three sermons yesterday which concluded a three-week revival at the First Nazarene church, St. Clair avenue, Rev. I. M. Ellis, late last night started for his home in Dallas, Texas, where he expects to arrive at noon on Tuesday. Twenty persons expressed conversion at last night's service and 12 on Saturday evening which ran the total for the series of meetings to 280. No altar calls were given yesterday morning and afternoon.

Divine Healing Services.
Divine healing services were held in the afternoon following the evangelist's discourse on "The Millennium" in which he affirmed the pre-millennium viewpoint. Between 30 and 35 persons were anointed for physical ills and many of them expressed immediate delivery therefrom.

"We believe in the touching of our bodies by God as well as in the salvation of our souls," explained the Rev. Mr. Ellis. "When folks trust God sufficiently and are confident in His power to do so healing will result by faith as certainly as will salvation come by it."

More than 800 persons jammed the church last night and overflowed into the streets alongside. About 700 were in attendance in the afternoon despite the fact that many of the congregation and the pastor, the Rev. O. L. Benedum, were at a funeral service. The morning crowd was estimated at 450 with 451 registering at the Sunday school at the outset of the day's activities.

Special Music.
The large volunteer choir and 15-piece orchestra was in charge of the music last night under the direction of Gail Hutchinson. Raymond Davis was the accompanist.

A feature was the contribution of a saw solo by Carl Green, his number being "All for Jesus."

The Barnett sister, a quartet from Akron, 8 to 16 years of age, sang at every service yesterday and also on Saturday night. With the crowd filling the church at 7 o'clock, one-half hour before the announced starting time, the service was begun prematurely. During the preliminary period they sang five requested songs as follows: "We Shall Rise," "Happy Day," "I Ain't a Goin' To Grieve My Lord No More," a Negro spiritual, "It's Different Now" and "When You Get Religion, Get It Right."

Given a generous reception during their stay here from Friday, they returned to their home at the conclusion of the night service, accompanied by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Barnett, who came for them. They thus were able to resume their school work today.

The invocation last night was made by the Rev. B. H. Pocock, also of Akron and formerly of Chester, W. Va. In the afternoon service two numbers were sung by the 65-voice junior choir of the church, directed by Miss Bonetta Pyle.

Forty New Members Enrolled.
During the service last night 40 new members were taken into the church by the pastor, the Rev. O. L. Benedum. Other churches in the city, it was announced, will receive adherents as a result of the concluded campaign, many of the converts having signed cards giving various denominations as their preference. On Saturday night the Rev. Mr. Ellis spoke on "A Bible Moving Picture Reel," in which he declared every man's likeness was discernible in the word of God.

The Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Gould with a delegation from his New Brighton, Pa., church were in attendance as was the Rev. T. M. Anderson of Wilmore, Ky., who is conducting a meeting there. The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Gould sang "I Have an Understanding With the King."

Sunday Morning Sermon.

On Sunday morning the Rev. Mr. Ellis spoke on "God's Care."

His theme in the evening was "The Unpardonable Sin," which he held was that against the Holy Ghost.

"This series of meetings has been among the best I have ever conducted," said the Rev. Mr. Ellis. "I have never been more graciously treated anywhere by pastor, congregation and those from other churches in the city. I shall always remember East Liverpool, its people and especially the newspaper here which took note of the revival."

Elected to the district superintendency of his church last November, the Rev. Mr. Ellis said he would immediately plunge into his new duties and for a time relinquish evangelistic work to which formerly he gave his entire time.

"I shall be glad to get where it is a bit warmer," he said. "But it also has been good to have been in East Liverpool."

Penn Avenue Traffic Peril

CORONER J. M. Van Fossan's verdict of "unavoidable accident" in the recent head-on collision between an automobile and street car in which two persons were killed, stresses the fact that extraordinary care should be exercised by East Liverpool motorists who travel along the narrow section of Pennsylvania avenue between East Fourth and Ravine streets.

No responsibility has been fixed for last week's crash, in which the snow-covered street probably was a factor, but the fact remains that automobile drivers should not forget that there is only a 24-foot highway for traffic and vehicular traffic for a distance of three squares in that zone.

The intersection of East Fourth street and Pennsylvania avenue is an especially dangerous place, while not infrequently accidents occur at the Ravine street intersection. At the latter point a "Stop" sign has been erected, but often this warning is ignored by motorists.

The Pennsylvania avenue grade probably invites speed beyond the limit fixed by the rules of safety, but it pays to be careful.

Stop, look and listen at street car crossovers as well as railroad grade crossings.

Fight On Death Penalty

Campaigns will be waged in five states this winter before the legislatures to bring about abolition of the death penalty. The states are Ohio, Colorado, California, Indiana and Washington. This is not a new thing, but the renewal of a campaign which has been under way for some time.

In Ohio the drive against the electric chair is led by Harry L. Davis, one-time governor; Bishop William Montgomery Brown, Judge L. Stevens and Rabbi Abraham Nowak. The state is divided into three sections, with headquarters at Cleveland, Cincinnati and Columbus.

And of more than passing importance in connection with the Colorado angle of this affair it is to be noted that the Denver Bar association has just recommended enactment of more stringent laws as a possible crime curb. There must be something wrong in a state where the lawyers want more severe penalties for crime, and where others want to wipe out the death penalty.

Penologists have for years been consolidating their positions for the drive which they hope will do away with capital punishment. When Davis was governor he was opposed to executions, but would not lift a hand to prevent them. The law provided for executions, he maintained, and the law would be permitted to take its course until such time as an aroused public would bring about a change.

The National League to Abolish Capital Punishment is behind this concerted drive. The organization is conducting campaigns in 13 states, and now is proposing a federation of these states for concerted action. The theory upon which this league proceeds is that the hangman's noose or the chair is not for the rich or influential—that capital punishment is merely society's cancer or revengeful retaliation—a stupid application of the Mosaic law.

But what are the facts? Here in Ohio, what is the situation? Is it a fact that society is keen for revenge and therefore clings to the electric chair for the purpose of carrying out the revenge the league speaks about? Police officers do not believe that is the case; nor is the assertion borne out by declarations from those in the penitentiary charged with the executions which are carried out.

Members of the league opposed to capital punishment point out that confinement in prison is a far more dreaded punishment than execution for the man whose crime is sufficient to merit the chair. That is true, as far as it goes. But under the methods pursued in Ohio it is possible for many offenders who should be kept permanently shut out from the world, to secure their liberty on parole. Were it not for this weak point in Ohio's criminal code it is quite likely the anti-death faction would have a much stronger following.

A person who forfeits his rights to live by particularly gruesome crimes ought to be put to death, as a means of communicating to others that the way of the transgressor is a difficult one. It is a soft public that lets criminals escape their desserts, and makes possible much of the crime with which the country is infested.

Anti-war Pact Ratified

The Kellogg-Briand peace treaty, the United States senate having ratified it, and President Coolidge having attached his signature, has now received the indorsements, actual or promised, of sixty governments.

It is said of the treaty that it will go down in history as one of the shortest ever drafted. Of its three articles, the last merely sets up the details regarding its ratification by the governments of the signatory nations thereto. The other two articles read:

"Article one: The high-contracting parties solemnly declare in the names of their respective peoples that they condemn recourse to war for the solution of international controversies, and renounce it as an instrument of national policy in their relations with one another.

"Article two: The high-contracting parties agree that the settlement or solution of all disputes or conflicts of whatever nature or of whatever origin they may be, which may arise among them, shall never be sought except by pacific means."

Such is the wording of the treaty, but it goes without the saying that the reservations, interpretations and conditions made by the various signatories will hardly leave the spirit of the document all its wording implies.

At the best, it is what between individuals would be considered a gentlemen's agreement in which the parties pledge their honor to employ peaceful means to accomplish the settlement of any and all differences between them, saving and excepting the settlement of matters set out in reservations, interpretations or otherwise, and that even in such cases peaceful solutions shall be sought.

Syracuse, New York, reports that wintry blasts brought snow flurries and swarms of mosquitoes to that city, which goes to show that not all the nature fakers have departed from this vale of tears and sorrow.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 21.—Public officials and prominent townsmen of York, Pennsylvania, have let it be known that they deplore the widespread publicity which has attended the Rehmeier trial and made the York witchcraft another chapter in the annals of necromancy. It is obvious that had not the element of secrecy entered, the murder trial of obscure persons would not have attracted world-wide newspaper attention.

But residents of York need have no feeling of discomfort because witchcraft is practiced as a matter of course in many sections of the United States and has its springs in the deepest roots of all mankind. But the broader proposition which can not be ignored is that nearly every man has some faint vestige of belief in witchcraft, even though it may have been civilized into subconsciousness. The York witchcraft is nothing for York to be ashamed of; indeed were vestiges of witchcraft wholly absent, the county must necessarily be considered as populated by abnormal and irreligious persons. The constitution itself guarantees freedom of worship.

And it must be borne in mind that witchcraft springs wholly from religious impulses. In some periods it has been regarded as and has been friendly; in others, especially since the rise of Christianity, it has been frowned upon. To this day the Chinese keep hideous grinning idols in their houses to fend off evil spirits just as American negroes carry rabbits' feet.

The religious instinct is the most ancient mental instinct of mankind. Sir James Frazer, as well as many other investigators, finds witchcraft firmly implanted in the earliest peoples of which we have any very definite knowledge. Every man, however nebulous, has constantly about him a consciousness of God and for a man to realize there is One greater than he will instill fear into the hardest. That feeling was fostered by the earliest tribal chiefs and especially the early kings.

The Egyptian kings not only ruled by divine right according to the more modern notion, but actually were worshipped as gods. For a considerable time after the birth of Christ, the Emperor of Rome bore the style of Pontifex Maximus.

But deeper than the desire of the god-kings to instill obedience into their subjects was the desire of the subjects themselves. All the ancient pagan religious practices reveal the fact that fear was the dominating influence of worship. Of great gods were fearful myths and most sedulously worshipped and offerings of myth and spikenard, of frankincense and young lambs, of rose-decked sacred bulls and the fairest of virgins and young children were sacrificed to propitiate them.

They had a single overmastering fear, for they recognized the existence of the Deity in every element, for which reason they had gods of the sea, gods of the storm, gods of the sun, and more friendly gods such as those of fertility in both the animal and vegetable kingdoms. It was simpler to understand a separate god for each great motive force of nature than to comprehend universality. The Jews probably introduced the idea of a single god but he, too, was in fierce and vindictive deity, propitiated by fear. "I am a jealous God," says the Scripture.

Primitive peoples down to the days of the great Mediterranean, down to and later than the Age of Pericles, centuries later, lived and thought simply. They practiced a golden rule and were willing to do unto their gods as they wished to be done by. So the sacrifices were made their gods as they wished to be done by. So the sacrifices were made in the witching belief that the deities would be pleased with the offerings. It is significant that the Furies, the terrible creatures which swept the earth in storm, destroyed men and crops, and sank ships at sea were called by the Greeks the Eumenides which means, translated, Good Friends. They believed that a soft answer would turn away wrath. They sacrificed to avert disaster and they sacrificed, as at harvest, in thanksgiving for what they had received.

The Good Fellows are a northern equivalent, still used in England and Scotland, for impish sprites and kelpies likely to do damage. All over the world may be found local analogies.

Take an obvious example. From very early times there has been a fear of a god in animal form. It is a phantom beast constantly seeking to do evil to mankind and can not be killed. In India it is a tiger; in certain far northern countries, a bear. But probably over most of the world having any kinship with the Occidental peoples it takes the form of a wolf, a savage winter wolf. In French-speaking countries it is the loup-garou and these peoples seek to fend off with their own religious magic. In Europe and in this country, to a lesser extent, it is the celebrated werewolf. In Europe, among the less literate classes this werewolf, always ready to seize their beasts and their children, is a very real thing.

Americans generally complain about the struggle to keep the wolf from the door.

Q. When was the first play by television broadcast?
 R. N.

A. The play was an old one-act drama, the Queen's Messenger, by J. Hartley Manners. It was broadcast at 1:30 p. m., September 11, 1928, by WGY with Izzetta Jewel as leading lady.

Q. Which team was heavier, the California University or Georgia Tech? H. D. V.

A. The combined weight of the California players was 2045 pounds and of the Georgia Tech players, 1956 pounds.

Q. Where was a dueling ground known as the Oaks?
 H. McK.

A. The Oaks, one of the most famous dueling grounds in the world, was in the suburbs of New Orleans. On one particular Sunday in 1828, ten duels were fought there. Between 1834 and 1844, scarcely a day passed without a duel. The Oaks on this ground are still standing. Duels in those days were fought over such unimportant differences, that they would now be regarded as trivial.

Q. Why is lyric poetry so called? T. G.

A. The name was given by the Greeks to a kind of non-narrative poetry chanted or sung to the accompaniment of the lyre. The term has come to be used with less restriction, passing to poetry unaccompanied by music but constructed on the system of musical measure, then to any short poem and limited scope of emotion, without regard to musical adaptation.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

At Sea—Just before starting with my wife, mother-in-law and dog to the pier to embark on the Ile de France for a short trip abroad, a slick gentleman tricked me into stopping on the way to make a movie-tone talk. They ran suddenly out of celebrities and decided to use me for one.

They'll be more careful after this. I not only gurned up a couple of reels trying to say "recalcitrant," but stood in the wrong spot twice and, blinded by the lights, was only saved from breaking my neck down an elevator shaft by the quick yank of a workman. And what he said!

So I was in no mood for a fidgety ocean. We had scarcely lifted anchor until it snapped into its dance—not a soft toe affair but one of those old-fashioned hoe downs. In such trying moments, with doors slamming and port holes closing, one needs most of all a symbol of courage.

I rang for the steward. I needed nothing, but just wanted to see him shrug his shoulders and hear him say: "It is nothing, monsieur!" He turned out to be one of those plump, blonde, wine-checked Frenchmen with violet eyes and a thin piping tenor.

A lot of help. When he spoke I thought he had stepped on a kitten. He kept watching the door and I made up my mind if he made a dash to trip him. He would not beat me to a life boat. And then, like dawn in the movies, came the calm. There is only one interesting ocean trip and that is the first. Take it from one on his 16th crossing.

The rest have a rubber stamp monopoly—the same tweedy pipe smokers, gigly flappers and lounging room bores. The minute you realize there is no turning back you would give your hope of Heaven to be home. But folk will be ridiculous and go abroad, and here we are.

It is amusing to watch people creep out on deck following a storm. Their manner is so nonchalant—chipping like sparrows after a sudden shower. The seasoned voyageur knows they likely donned life belts and sat about in their cabins in white-faced terror while the waves roiled high. How I know!

There are two heroes aboard with their breasts cluttered up with so many medals Mr. Sousa would look asked. Adulation is always dangerous, and these lads are no exceptions. They came aboard with a heavy list and have been that way ever since. We are not indulgent with heroes any more. There are too many, and we want them sober. Either that or they must hide their medals. An East Indian prince, who looks like Otis Skinner, wearing a white robe and a diamond bracelet on each wrist, is in the cabin next door. I wonder if he tells fortunes.

Nothing is quite so "mental" as sea sickness. In the Olympic one time I saw a man deliberately talk another into it. The victim was boasting of many crossings made without a tremor and his friend winked at the group about the table. I don't know what he said but when I passed by later everybody was convulsed with laughter and the inmate fellow was galloping for the rail—the gray of a flounder's belly. And he did not show himself again.

Old seagoing captains many years at the wheel are never entirely free from twinges of seasickness. And there are some people who actually cross the ocean solely to be ill. They believe it is a sort of panacea. I prefer castor oil raw.

As one who has had his share of mal-de-mer, one thing is certain. Food never tastes so good as after an attack. The illness vanishes pass—like that. One moment you think you are dying and hope you are, the next you are aching to tear into a three-inch steak with all the trimmings. There are no regrets either when you look back on "sickness" of all sickness. You do not mind having been a victim at all. If that were not true, liners would go into bankruptcy.

The liveliest thing on the ship during the sway of the drunken wind was my pooch. As the plunging liner poised in mid air and shivered down, he ran joyously in circles, barking his head off. A wan and annoyed gent next door rapped twice, but he need not have been so fussy. He was making funny noises himself. Perhaps another way of making whoopee.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

Only a few weeks ago the world was enjoying the holiday season. Perhaps the members of the families who pay the bills are less enthusiastic just now about the holiday season than they were on Christmas morning. But they'll be happy when another Christmas rolls around.

The fact is, we need diversion. We need a change from the ordinary routine of life. Indeed, we need frequent changes. I say in all reverence, that the Sabbath has a significance beyond the religious one. It is a day of diversion.

Of course, I do not mean by this that it need be made a day of celebration and riotous living. That is not the sort of diversion I have in mind. But it is intended to be a day different from the other six days. It should be a day of relief from the monotony of existence.

I cannot speak too strongly about the need for diversions. It is absolutely essential to make provision for regular and frequent changes from the routine of life, no matter how agreeable that routine may be.

There is nothing so depressing, so nerve-wearing, so temper-breaking and so deadly as the steady grind of existence. The best machine in the world must have periods of overhauling. Few engines ever made could run from New York to San Francisco without stopping. Overhauling, oiling, fueling and repairing are necessary. The only safe way to run the engine is to have periods and places for regular stops.

Certainly this is the case with the human machine. Not alone does the body require these periods of rest, but the brain and nervous system demand them.

I have seen many a friend of mine grow stale, by too close application to his work. It is indeed true that "All work and no play make Jack a dull boy."

What are you doing to vary the monotony of your life? Do you go out to lunch with a friend occasionally? Do you take a walk in a new part of town? Do you walk in the woods or go into the attic to see how things are there? When did you last go to the theater or a movie? Do you ever bear a preacher other than your own? How many times a month do you taste other people's food?

If you are to be alert, energetic, enthusiastic, abounding in health and vigor, you must have diversion. You must have a change of thought and scene. These things are essential to your good health and long life.

Answers to Health Queries.

M. B. Q.—What do you advise for burning of the bottom of the feet?
 2.—I have yellow spots before my eyes—they are not sore and the vision is perfect—what would you advise?

A.—Try bathing the feet in warm water to which a little powdered alum has been added. Frequent changing of the stockings and shoes, the latter being properly fitted should bring about relief. The circulation might also be at fault.

2.—Probably due to biliousness. Correct your diet cutting down on sugars and rich heavy foods and keep your system clear. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

L. M. Q.—What would cause palpitation of the heart, causing trembling, and swelling of the ankles? Could these symptoms be caused by some thyroid condition?

A.—Possibly, although the heart may be responsible. Careful examination will locate the exact source and then definite treatment can be advised.

S. S. Q.—What will improve the growth of my hair?

The Passing of Table Talk.

If the high school where your son is supposed to be studying should burn down, or topple over in a hurricane, he would probably mention it at the dinner table that night. But if the governor of Ohio spoke at the school assembly, the fact might be buried in the lad's consciousness, not to emerge at home. If a United States senator or the mayor of Cincinnati gave him a lift in his car, it might not be spoken of, unless the car were an unusually good one. Do your boys ever express themselves on the shows they have attended, the quality of music they have danced to at roadhouses, the books they are reading? We doubt it. To judge from the confidences of parents, the typical domestic meal passes with no table talk except that of the elders and the minor contributions of a flapper daughter who exclaims "you would!" "and how," and "whoopie," and then is through.

For the practical disappearance of conversation in the old sense of the word, various modern conveniences are responsible. Chief of these is the telephone; young people conduct such lengthy tete-a-tetes over the wire that they have nothing left when they turn away from it. With the radio feeding lectures, bedtime stories and the "Two Black Crows" into the dining room original observations seem rather unnecessary. The silence of the movies, also, is a contagious thing. It must be that the general vogue of noise at other places of entertainment requires recuperative and ruminative intervals to offset it. When your son passes voicelessly from course to course at the daily festival of food, possibly—just possibly—he is thinking—Cincinnati Times-Star.

 Less Bluffing, More Knowledge

If you don't know, say so, and learn something.

Making a bluff of knowing more than you do may be the reason why you are not more enlightened.

Those from whom you might gain important facts are averse for discussing subjects upon which you pretend to have knowledge—if after all you succeed in deceiving them.

Often you only think you have misjudged.

In either case they consider that you are not worth explanations.

A bluff carries up to a certain point—then it becomes a decided flop.

And the one using the bluff goes with it.

It is not necessary to broadcast your ignorance.

Those with a superficial knowledge might attempt to expose you.

But it is unwise to indicate that you are well informed on any subject when you are in the presence of an authority who might give you good pointers.

Perhaps you have been going along on a bluff.

If so, you must realize when you have reached your limit.

And now you know that it would have been better for you if you had bluffed less and tried to learn more.

Words of the Wise

If the devil ever laughs, it must be at the hypocrites. They are the greatest dupes he has—Colton.

Believe me, every man has his secret sorrows, which the world knows not; and oftentimes we call a man cold when he is only sad—Spencer.

'Tis the business of little minds to shrink, but he whose heart is firm, and whose conscience approves his conduct, will pursue his principles unto death—Paine.

Novels are sweets. All people with healthy literary appetites love them—almost all women; a vast number of clever, hard-headed men.—Thackeray.

BEAUTY AND UTILITY

ARE COMBINED IN THE NEW FORD

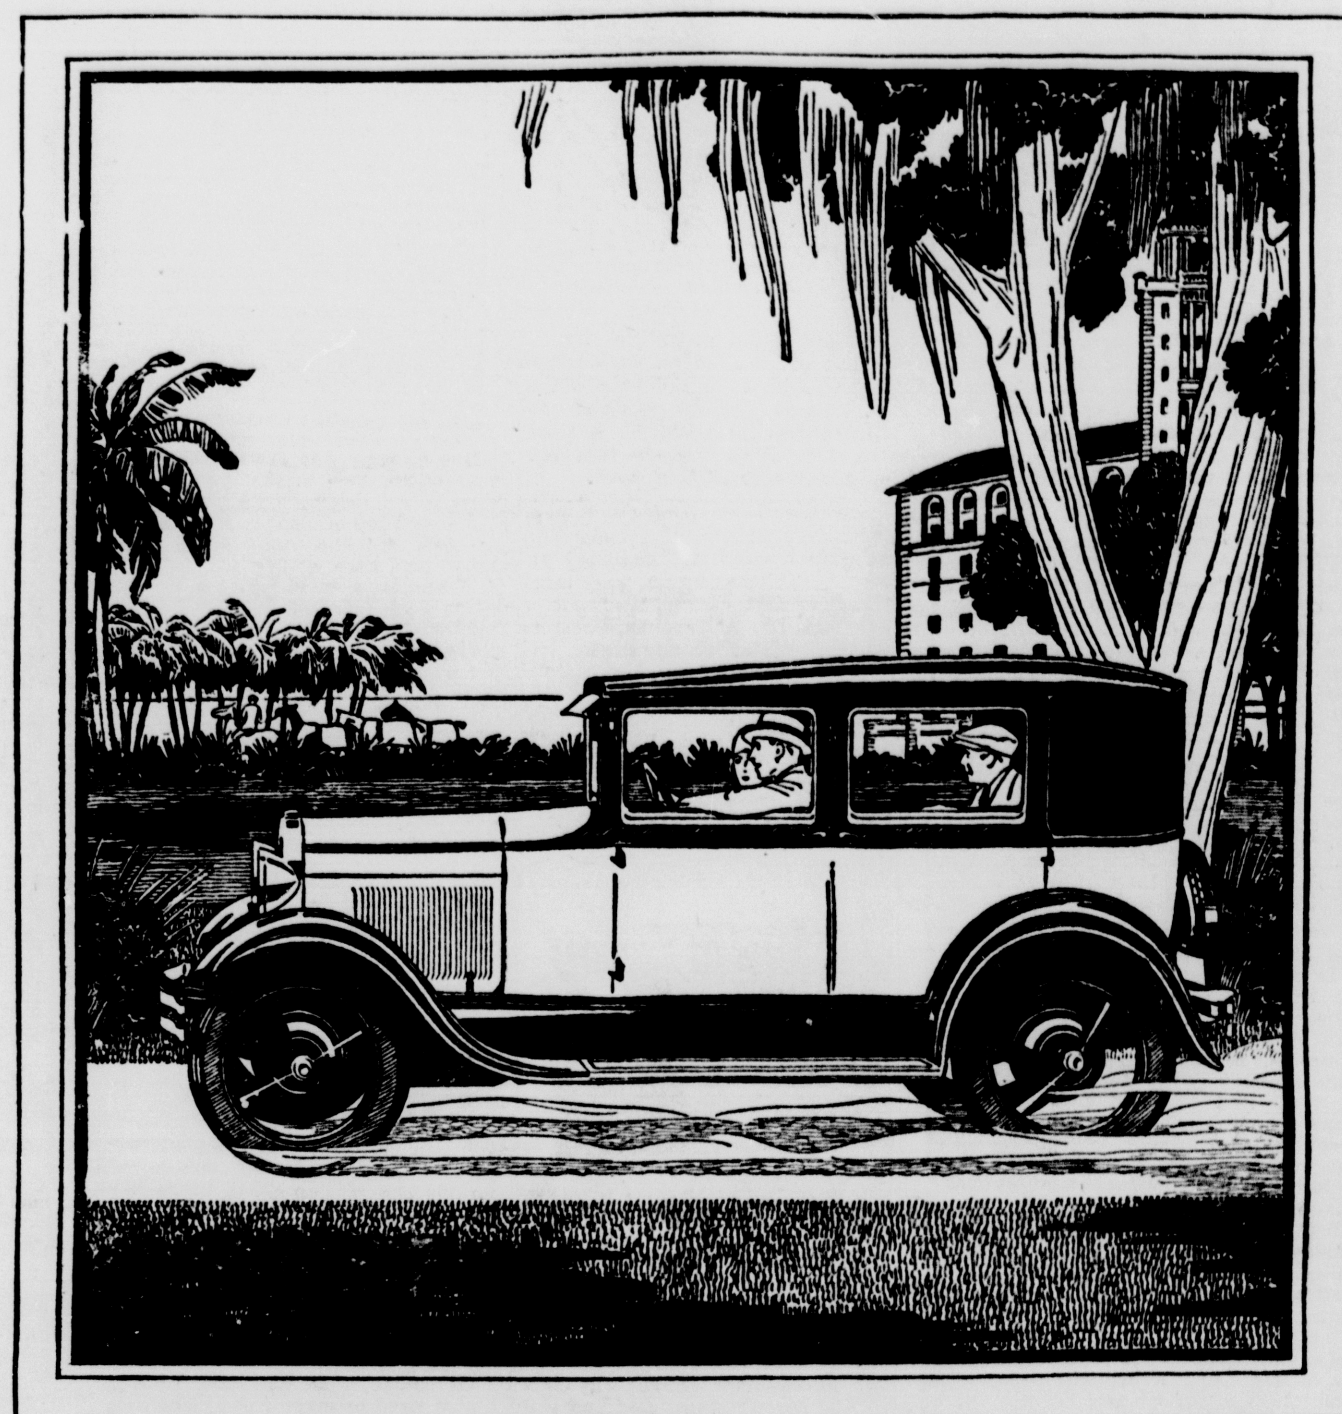

WHEN you see the new Ford, you are impressed instantly by its trim, graceful lines and air of sturdy strength. Its very appearance is a reflection of the alert, capable performance of the car. Without being extreme, it has struck a new note in automobile designing.

A particularly interesting feature of the new Ford is the way beauty has been combined with utility. This is found in the length, width and height of the body, the size and shape of the radiator, the position of the gasoline tank in the cowl, the outward flow of the body, the design of the welded steel spoke wheels, the shape and position of the full nicked headlamps, the sweep and curve of the heavy full crown fenders.

Everything has been planned for service

When a thing perfectly fits its uses, it is pleasing to the eye. Every part of the new Ford has been designed and built not only to be attractive, but with a very definite thought of the work it has to do.

Even in the very little things you can see evidence of quality of material, careful workmanship and quiet good taste. The upholstery of important parts—in the way the engine develops its speed, acceleration and power without sacrificing reliability or economy.

To the man who drives his automobile many thousands of miles every year and who looks to it for continuous service at low cost, this mechanical beauty is of more importance even than beauty of line and finish.

For it is a reflection of simplicity of design, quality of materials and careful workmanship, which are the three fundamental factors in motor car performance.

There is indeed no greater tribute to the value of the new Ford than the simple, homely phrase which you hear so often from Ford owners, experienced garage mechanics and all who know and understand the workings of an automobile—"It is a sweet mechanical job."

is of woolen material, rich and luxurious, yet long-wearing.

Attractive colors add to beauty of the new Ford

Every one of the new Ford body types is available in a choice of several beautiful two-tone color harmonies with attractive striping. This is an unusual feature in a low-price car.

The finish is pyroxylin lacquer, selected for its enduring qualities. It is not affected by heat or cold, is not easily marred or scratched, and polishes to a beautiful luster.

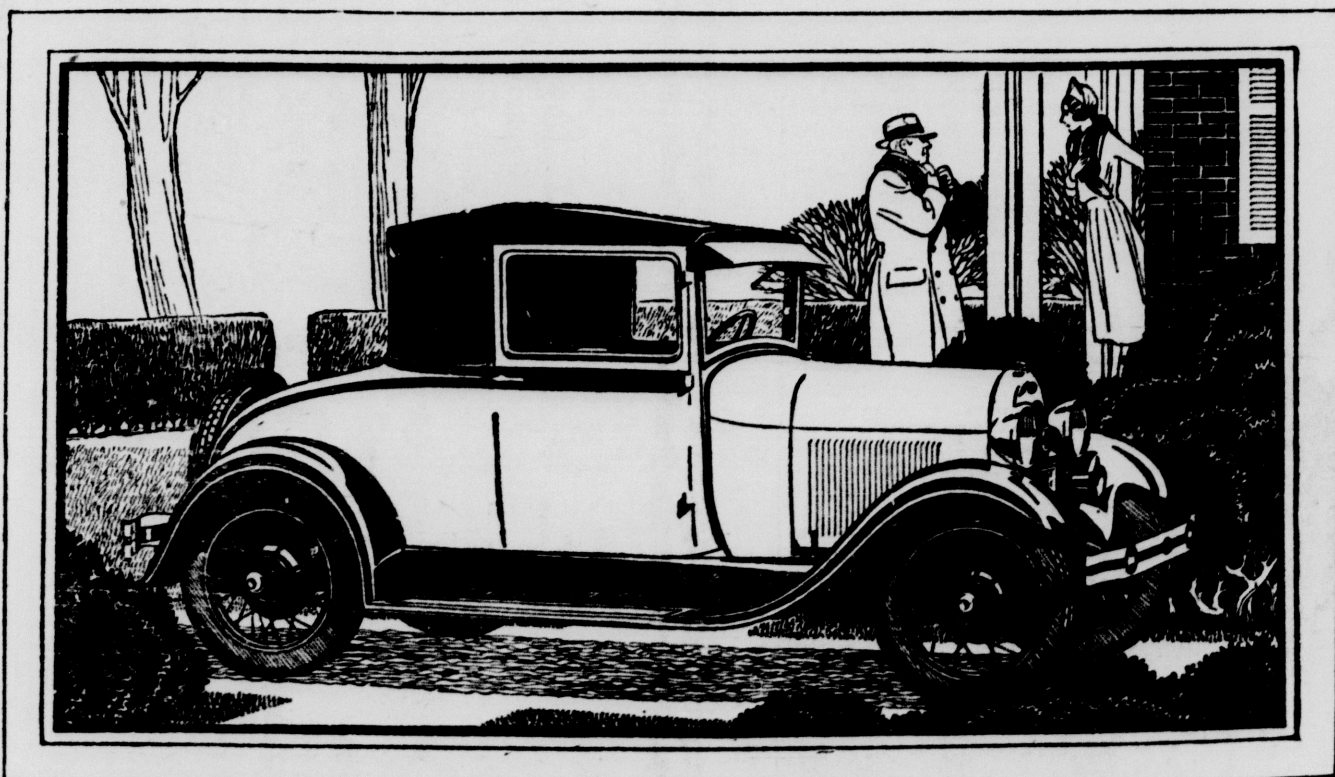

Once a month at least your car should be washed and polished.

The beauty of the Ford is not of the outside only, but extends deep down into every part—even to those hidden parts which you may never see. In the eyes of the engineer and technical man, the mechanical beauty of the new Ford is one of its greatest features.

The practical beauty of a fine machine

There is beauty, for instance, in the fine steel forgings which are used everywhere in the chassis of the new Ford where there is a possibility of wear—in the manner in which electric welding has been developed to give increased strength without increased weight—in the simplicity of the cooling, lubrication, ignition, and fuel systems—in the extensive use of ball and roller bearings—in the simple operation of the fully enclosed six-brake system—in the close limits of accuracy maintained in the manufacture

The new Ford Business Coupe has been especially designed for professional men, executives, salesmen—for all who use an automobile constantly for business use. Handy package space behind seat and unusually large rear deck are welcome features.

Evangelist J. M. Huff Opens Revival Here

Large Crowds Attend Morning and Evening Services in Nazarene Church.

CHESTER, W. Va., Jan. 21.—Large crowds attended the opening of the revival yesterday in the Church of the Nazarene, Virginia avenue, in charge of the Huff-Eby evangelistic party of Olivet, Ill.

Evangelist J. M. Huff spoke at the morning and evening services, while solos were sung by the Rev. E. T. Eby. Miss Opal Huff, daughter of the evangelist, was the accompanist.

In the morning, Evangelist Huff, speaking on "Victory," said in part: "One may live such a victorious Christian life that neither principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depths nor any other creature shall be able to separate us from the love of God."

His topic in the evening was "Where There is No Vision the People Perish." His appeal was for a vision of the spiritual needs of the day. He cited statistics showing that there are 28 million boys and girls in the United States under 16 years of age who are not under any religious training, and that only about 48 millions of our entire 110-million population are affiliated with any religious denomination.

Save Boys and Girls, He Urges. The evangelist pointed out that he had visited a number of penal institutions for boys in Illinois, Michigan and Ohio, and upon investigation had found not one of the inmates at the time of his visit had a Sunday school record. In closing his sermon he said: "We should not wait until our boys and girls have gotten into sin and then endeavor to rescue them. Our aim should be to save the life of the boy and girl from sin."

Meetings for children will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons at 4:15 in charge of Miss Huff, while cottage prayer services will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons from 2 to 3 o'clock.

MINE VICTIM IS IMPROVING

A. R. Dulsko Recovering From Broken Back Relatives Say.

A. R. Dulsko, coal mine operator near the Washington school, three and one-half miles from Chester, who sustained a broken neck when he was struck by a fall of slate, will probably recover, it was said today. Mrs. Dulsko returned here today from the Mt. Vernon, O. hospital, where Dulsko underwent an operation last week.

The mine, which supplies the neighborhood trade, is being operated by Mrs. Dulsko.

BETHANY LIBRARY GETS NEW BOOKS

Important additions have recently been made to the Bethany college library, most notable of which is the new English dictionary on historical principles, by Sir James A. H. Murray, LL. D. It is founded on the materials collected by the Philadelphia Philological society during the years 1888 to 1928.

Another is a book, "Ur Excavation Al Ubad," publication of the joint expedition of representatives of the British museum and the museum of the University of Pennsylvania into Mesopotamia.

A third addition is a thesis, in pamphlet form by Dr. B. R. Weimer, professor in the department of biology and was written by Dr. Weimer in 1926-27 during his stay at the University of Chicago while preparing for a Ph. D. degree.

George O'Brien and Janet Gaynor in "Sunrise" Fox Picture

The vampire urges the man to drown his wife and go to the city with her. She forces his consent but in the midst of his deed he shrinks from the crime and tries to rein in his terrified wife's love. He does rein her and they go to the city to enjoy themselves. On their return, over the water, the tragedy that the man planned is all but brought about by a terrific storm. Then does he realize the true value of his wife's love, and in a frenzy he drives the siren from him. At the Ceramic theater all this week.

Burial was made in Locust Hill cemetery.

Famous Recipe For Stopping a Severe Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any drugist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, soothes away the inflammation, and loosens the germ-laden phlegm. At the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of cressote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for "flu" coughs and other severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

'UNCROWNED KING' IN AFGHANISTAN

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Persistent rumors to the effect that Colonel T. E. Lawrence, "uncrowned king of Arabia," is now in Afghanistan with Bacha Sakao, the country's third king in a week, are now prevailing along the Indian-Afghan frontier, according to Indian News Service dispatches received here today.

These dispatches also tell of the prevailing belief that Lawrence never sailed for England despite official assertions to the contrary. In confirmation of this belief, the dispatches recall that newspaper men failed to locate the picturesque colonel aboard the liner Bombay.

H. R. Cameron Named Mayor of Salineville

Pottery Worker Succeeds R. D. Smith Who Resigns to Become State Representative.

WELLSVILLE, O., Jan. 21.—H. R. Cameron, pottery worker and agriculturist, today is wielding the gavel of administrative authority in the village of Salineville following the departure of former Mayor R. D. Smith to Columbus where, as one of Columbiana county's two state legislators, he will work with Ohio lawmakers.

As a result of Smith's election to the legislature, a series of changes have occurred in Salineville village council ranks. Cameron, former councilman, succeeded Smith as mayor.

Cameron, in turn, appointed A. R. Allison, a miner and carpenter, to fill the vacancy in council and members of the lawmaking organization then elected E. F. Hart, coal operator, to the pro tem presidency.

Smith held office as mayor for three years. He still retains his justice of the peace office in Salineville.

Other members of the village council include John Johnston, decorator and potter; B. A. Patterson, section foreman; Thomas Fido, coal miner, and C. W. Toban, Central school caretaker.

83 RESCUED AS DOLLAR LINER GOES AGROUND

Transfer President Garfield's Passengers Off Florida.

CREW IS ABOARD

Pan-American, Munson Steamer, Answers S. O. S.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Carrying all of the 83 passengers of the Dollar liner President Garfield, which went aground in a fog early yesterday on Maitland shoal off the Florida coast, the Munson steamer Pan-America was steaming toward Nassau, Bahamas, early today.

Meanwhile a wrecking tug was attempting to pull the 10,000-ton President Garfield off the reef. The 120 persons in the President Garfield's crew remained aboard the grounded liner.

Captain George Rose, of the Pan-America, reported by wireless to International News Service that the passengers, who left New York on Thursday, bound on a round-the-world cruise, were transferred safely to the Pan-America at 5:30 p. m. yesterday.

That the fog had lifted and that favorable conditions now prevail was indicated by Captain T. P. Quinn, commander of the Dollar liner, in a message to International News Service.

Maitland shoal is approximately 75 miles east of Port Pierce, Fla., and at the northern extremity of the Bahamas. The Pan-America received the Garfield's S. O. S. at 7:15 a. m. yesterday, reached the scene under forced draft shortly after 4:30 p. m. and had transferred the passengers in another hour.

Arch Bandit Dies

One Light Over Chair. It was a minute before seven. Only those who were to view this grim spectacle trudged up a winding stairway and into the death chamber. It was dimly lit except for one strong light directly over the chair. On the walls were painted the ironical admonition, "Silence."

The witnesses took seats at the rear of the room. Quickly the death chair was roped off into a 15-foot enclosure. Inside stood the warden, two doctors, several guards in uniform and the quaint, hollow-cheeked executioner, Robert Elliott.

The little gray door opened gently, and in came Jaworski, guards holding him by the wrists.

Looks Straight Ahead. His broad Slavic countenance was inscrutable. There was a faraway expression in his glazed eyes. His hair was clipped to the skull.

He walked with a slight limp, his leg having been paralyzed by a bullet. He looked straight ahead.

He wore a white shirt, without a collar, black pants and black felt slippers. The pants of the left leg was split from the knee down and his bare leg showed as he limped in.

It was only three steps to the chair. Jaworski gave that sinister contraption one quick look as he was half lifted into it.

Quickly and deftly two guards drew the brown leather mask, with tiny slits for the eyes and a small opening at the nose across his face, and fastened it at the back. It was a grotesque looking affair that covered all of his face and even his neck.

And a terrible silence, broken only by the sizzling of a steam radiator, the guards drew heavy black straps across his body and legs, fastening him tightly to the chair.

Reporter Turns Eyes Away. The faces of more than one newspaper man paled. The reporter to my left trembled and turned his eyes away.

Warden Stanley P. Ashe glanced at his wristwatch. It was exactly 7 a. m. The tall, gray-haired executioner, Elliott, had his hands over his helmet and the doorman's head and over the straps on his body and stepped back to the switch which was directly beneath ten blazing lights set in a black background much similar to a large open safe.

Elliott rammed down the lever. There was a crunching sound as he did it and the killing current of man-made lightning—enough "juice" to light 90 homes—was sent hurtling through the prisoner's body.

The form in the chair leaped as if to break the strong leather straps which held it. There was a spluttering drone and a sizzle that reminded one of a sputtering Fourth of July sparkler.

A thin, gray wisp of smoke pushed itself out from under the electrode that had been clamped on the condemned man's head. It wafted up toward the overhead light and through a huge silver-hued ventilator of funnel hanging from the ceiling directly over the chair.

Jaworski's Hands Turn Red. Jaworski's hands, clamping tightly to the broad, oaken arms of the chair, turned beet red. A blood color also suffused the neck, and no doubt the face, which was concealed by the mask.

Smoke emanated in waves from the bare leg where the electrode had made the other contact.

The cords of the man's neck stood out like steel bands. He sat bolt upright in the chair.

There was a strange, gruesome cracking of machinery as Elliott rattled away with the rheostat, a contrivance that regulates the amperage which was applied with varying degrees of intensity after the initial 2,000 volts had been shot through the body.

The seconds dragged on. Each second seemed an hour to the awe-stricken witnesses.

A radiator sizzled loudly amid the awful silence of the room.

Refused Spiritual Consolation. Suddenly Jaworski's body relaxed,

SCIENCE WILL "REMAKE" BABY BORN LEGLESS AND WITH ONE ARM

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—A baby girl, born legless and with only one arm, will be entirely "remade" by modern science, according to Dr. Henry Hascom Thomas, professor of orthopedic surgery at the University of Illinois.

Two artificial legs and an artificial arm, equipped with wires attached to little loops of permanent skin will permit the child to control muscles and actually walk, eat, write and perform other acts of a normal child, Dr. Thomas claimed.

TWO MEN HELD CIVIC CONCERT ON AUTO COUNT TUESDAY NIGHT

Herman Riesmeyer and Ralph Wooley in Jail.

Charged with operating a motor vehicle without consent of the owner, Herman Riesmeyer, 49, and Ralph "Baz" Wooley Jr., 26, both of Jethro, were arrested today in their homes by Captain of Police Conley. They are being held in jail for a hearing before Municipal Judge Hanley tomorrow morning.

The prisoners are charged with having taken a sedan, owned by John Wood, Jr., son of Postmaster John T. Wood, while it was parked in Broadway near the Eagles' temple Saturday night. Riesmeyer confessed, Conley said, to having driven the car to Pittsburgh, Saturday night, where he and Wooley spent the night with Riesmeyer's mother. They returned to East Liverpool this morning. Riesmeyer said, abandoning the car at East Eighth street and Lincoln avenue. Wooley denied having had any part in the theft.

After Riesmeyer's confession police went to Lincoln avenue where Wood's car was found. It was returned to its owner.

Two men, indicted at the January session of the grand jury, were given indeterminate sentences in the Mansfield reformatory by Judge W. F. Lower, in common pleas court, Lisbon, today.

William Martina, Canton, indicted for attempted burglary of the People's credit clothing store, Diamond, East Liverpool, changed his plea of not guilty to that of guilty and was sentenced to serve from one to 15 years in the Mansfield institution.

Edward Whitehead, West Point, indicted for criminal assault, was given from one to 15 years at Mansfield. He also changed his plea to guilty.

Martina was arrested when caught in the act of attempting to force an entrance through a rear window of the People's store, occupying the old United Presbyterian church property, about three months ago.

Outside the prison, a priest, the Rev. Father P. A. McCreese, was chanting the litany of his faith. He was not in the death chamber because Jaworski, a former choir boy, had refused spiritual consolation on the ground that he is now an atheist, and had even talked against religion from a soap box.

The current was shut off. The executioner and the two physicians, Dr. Ezra L. Hickok of the prison and Dr. J. V. Foster, of State college, stepped forward. The latter had witnessed his first execution. The executioner lifted up the eye-slit of the mask and the doctors peered in.

Guards ripped down the man's shirt, revealing his bare chest. Dr. Hickok applied a stethoscope to a spot over Jaworski's heart. Then he stepped back and in crisp tones said: "Gentlemen, I declare Paul Jaworski dead."

Jaworski Dies in Four Minutes. Jaworski had entered the death chamber at 7 a. m. promptly. The first contact was established at 7:02 and he was pronounced dead at 7:06. One of the guards dipped a sponge into a large pan of water beside the chair and screened the man's burned left leg. The mask was removed, revealing an angry face distorted by pain.

Tenderly they lifted the lifeless body to a porcelain-topped wheel stretcher. The color had receded from his twisted face and his tattooed left arm hung limply over the side as they wheeled him past the horrified spectators to an adjoining room, where an autopsy was performed.

And thus, in this gruesome manner, the commonwealth of Pennsylvania exacted payment for the lurid career of this "modern Jesse James," who admitted to have killed at least six men while his notorious "Flathead" gang swept across four states—the terror of the law-abiding and the lawless alike. It was irrefutable proof that crime does not pay.

Society Exacts Its Toll. Then the door at the left of the chair swung open again, quite noiselessly, and Calvin James entered. The face of this 26-year-old youth was deathly pale but he walked without support. His lips were moving in prayer when the first shock was applied at 7:10. He was declared dead at 7:14.

Slowly the witnesses to the grim spectacle filed out of the room, down the winding stair and out of electrocution building.

How good the bracing January air felt! The prison stench had just blown away and hundreds of prisoners were tramping across the ground. They all knew that Jaworski and James had "gone west" and they seemed to regard newspaper men, hastening to their wires, with contempt.

Society, however, had exacted its toll in the manner in which it deemed right and in accordance with justice.

GUATEMALAN PLANES ATTACK REBEL FORCES

Bombers Give Loyal Army Upper Hand In Uprising.

CRUSHING FOE

Government Soldiers Are in Control of Situation.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 21.—Bombing planes, with which rebel positions were attacked from the air, have given the Guatemalan government forces the upper hand over the insurgents in the northwestern part of that country, according to information from the frontier this afternoon.

Roberto Lowenthal, Guatemalan ambassador, issued the following statement:

"From the first moment of the uprising on Thursday night in the department of Suchitepequez, the government forces obtained control of the situation. Mazatenango was speedily taken from the insurgents by the government troops. In all other departments of the republic peace reigns and the government is in control."

Two weeks' series of revival meetings opened at the First Church of Christ, East Fourth and College streets, last night with the Rev. W. H. Baker, pastor in charge.

Sermon subject for last night's service was "Enoch Walking With God." A vocal duet was rendered by Mr. and Mrs. George Eshenuth.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Biard, song evangelists of Pontau, Oklahoma, will arrive here today to assist in the campaign, making their first appearance tonight.

Services will be conducted every evening at 7:30 o'clock. The Rev. Mr. Baker will be in charge of the preaching.

FORDHAM NOTES SEVERE QUAKE

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—An earthquake of moderate intensity was recorded today at Fordham university here, Rev. J. J. Tynan announced.

The quake began at 5:45, reached its maximum at 5:50 and continued until 6:09. Fordham instruments placed the tremor 1,355 miles south of New York. This would be in or near the Bahamas islands.

Endurance Plane Leaves Tucson. TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 21.—The army endurance plane Question Mark left here at 7:45 a. m. (Mountain time) for Midland, Texas, its next step on its return trip to Washington, D. C.

Canton Patrolman Shot. CANTON, O., Jan. 21.—Patrolman Alonzo Wilhelm is in Mercy hospital today with a bullet wound in his shoulder inflicted by a suspect whom he was searching for a weapon. The shooting took place in a dark alley early Sunday. Wilhelm's assistant escaped. The patrolman will recover, physicians say.

Droughts did great damage to grain crops in Turkey this year.

Agricultural prosperity in Manchuria is rapidly growing.

SOLDIERS BRAVE FIRE, SAVE "SAX"

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21.—Two rookies at Fort Hayes, army post here, were supremely happy today, happiness resulting from a job well done in which they braved fire to rescue a saxophone.

Private Edgar Devault, 19, owner of the sax, and Sgt. W. E. Brown, both members of the Fort Hayes army band, decided to do some practicing last night. They were in the Long street home of Brown. While tooting out the strains, fire was discovered. Both fled to the street, leaving the saxophone in the burning house.

Devault rushed back into the house and when he failed to reappear, his buddy plunged after him. Devault lay unconscious at the foot of the stairs. He was dragged out by Brown and revived, and today was little the worse for the experience. Brown went back into the blazing house and did what Devault failed to do. He "rescued" the saxophone.

RAY R. GILL, AKRON, NAMED FIRE MARSHAL

Wayne W. Anderson, Medina, Division Engineer.

COOPER POSTS

Lous F. Miller's Successor Qualifies Tomorrow.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21.—Appointment of Ray R. Gill, Akron, 46, as state fire marshal and the selection of Wayne W. Anderson, Medina, as division engineer in state highway district No. 3, with headquarters at Ashland, was announced today by Governor Myers Y. Cooper.

Selection of Gill, who succeeds Louis F. Miller, Columbus, Democrat, was made by Commerce Director Robert Wald selected Anderson, a Republican, to succeed T. S. Brindle, Ashland.

Gill will take office tomorrow. Anderson's appointment is not effective until February 1. The fire marshal's salary is $4,500 a year.

12 MEN BURNED IN MINE CAVE-IN

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Jan. 21.—Twelve miners were burned at the Baltimore No. 5 mine of the Hudson Coal company today in an explosion following a tremendous cave-in, believed at first to have been an earthquake.

The death toll, shortly before noon had not been determined although wild reports were being circulated. Company officials refused to comment on the explosion and squeeze.

Six of the burned miners were in a serious condition, hospital attaches reported. The others were less seriously hurt.

EIGHT ARE HURT IN AUTO WRECK

CLEVELAND, Jan. 21.—Eight persons were still in a hospital here today as the result of an automobile accident yesterday when their car crashed into a street car on the East Side.

Four of the victims, all men, are as yet unidentified. They were still unconscious last night and were believed to have sustained fractured skulls. The other four were identified as Vasil Krabenich, his two children and his wife. They also suffered severe lacerations and possible fractures of the skull.

Representative Hughey Ill. COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21.—State Representative Dr. R. M. Hughey of Washington C. H. was reported to be slightly improved at University hospital here this morning. He is suffering from a serious kidney ailment.

TWO MORE "WHITE CROSSES" ERECTED

ATTICA, O., Jan. 21.—Two more white "death crosses" will be erected at the Lake Shore electric and state route No. 4, crossing north of here, as another fatal accident was recorded today. Already there are 12 crosses.

Miss Mary Carpenter, 20, school teacher of Attica, and Edward Kinzel, 21, of Willard, met death late last night when the automobile they were riding in, crashed into a suburban car.

AKRON MAN DIES IN AUTO CRASH

AKRON, Jan. 1.—W. G. Heatherman, 28, Akron, was killed today when the automobile he was driving skidded into the path of a bus. The bus driver crashed into a pole in his effort to avoid striking the car but was unsuccessful. Heatherman's wife and two other occupants of the car escaped with minor injuries.

STEAL $300, LOCK MAN IN GARAGE

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Jan. 21.—Three armed bandits robbed Frank Gable, Henrysburg garage owner, of $300 early this morning. The thugs locked Gable in a bedroom and escaped in an automobile.

Motorist Fined $2. Thomas Hayburg, 965 Ohio avenue was fined $2 by Municipal Judge Hanley today upon a charge of blocking the sidewalk in Broadway. Patrolman Leslie Curran, who made the arrest, said Hayburg's automobile was "parked" upon the sidewalk, compelling pedestrians to walk into the street in order to pass it.

YOU read the statement of astronomers "the star S in constellation of the swordfish is 500,000 times as brilliant as our sun, and its light traveling more than 186,000 miles per second, takes 100,000 years to reach our earth."

If we had a telescope powerful enough to reach that sun, we should see only things that happened 100,000 years ago. And from the "outside universe" beyond the borders of our Milky Way, light travels 1,000,000 and more years to reach us.

Why try to limit a universe like that?

DR. JOSEPH GOLDBERGER, public health service surgeon, conqueror of the destructive disease pellagra, author of many important contributions to science, is dead, and by his order, his ashes were scattered to the winds, above the Potomacs.

WHERE now is the man changed back to dust by the crematory fire? That question is more important to us than relativity. Will the atoms that were his body be gathered from the dust and put together as in life, to stand before the judgment seat?

We know nothing about anything of real importance, and that makes faith most necessary.

Many are the definitions of that usually misapplied word "gentleman." The cynic says "a gentleman is one who never offends another unintentionally."

ANY good definition would fit Dallett H. Wilson, a well-known lawyer, recently shot by his wife, presumably in a tantrum.

Tells the court she did not mean to do it, it was an accident, and anyhow, he had given her great provocation.

THERE are many ways of gaining fame. Lahire, French fighter, tried to rescue Joan of Arc, beat many of the British, fought all his life. He is mentioned, even now because, when he fought a big bear, he prayed "Lord, I do not ask you to help Lahire, I only ask you not to help this bear."

ANOTHER Frenchman, D'Assas, a la Tour D'Auvergne, suddenly surrounded by enemies with long lances, cried out to rouse and save the camp of his friends, and kept on shouting until the lances silenced him.

His regiment exists still, and the oldest soldier in the regiment once every year answers, when the name D'Assas is called.

Stepping from the ranks, saluting, he says "Dead on the field of honor." D'Assas will not be forgotten.

The Rev. E. A. Walker, pastor of the Emanuel Presbyterian church, the Rev. R. C. Beechley, of the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, and the Rev. J. H. Lawther, of the First Presbyterian church, left for Columbus this morning.

The Rev. Dr. W. O. Hawkins, of the First Methodist Episcopal church, and the Rev. J. W. Naramore, of the Orchard Grove Methodist Episcopal church and Wilson Smith, a layman from the former church, will leave for the convention Tuesday morning.

The Rev. Dr. Hawkins will attend a meeting of the committee having in charge the program for the annual meeting of the North-East Ohio conference which will be held at Cambridge next fall, while in Columbus tomorrow afternoon.

The local delegates will return to their homes Friday following adjournment of the convention Thursday afternoon.

STATE THEATER GETS "TALKIE"

Movietone is Also to be Installed in Playhouse.

Vitaphone and movietone equipment will be installed in the Southwestern New York Theater corporation's new State theater, St. Clair avenue, immediately, according to an announcement today by Managing Director E. E. Blair.

Survey for the sound equipment was made before the theater opened last fall. The Vitaphone will be of the latest design. Opening date will be announced within the near future.

Engineers, who have inspected the remodeled State theater, say it will be ideal for sound equipment.

"Talkies," as the Vitaphone pictures are called are not intended to replace vaudeville, according to Blair. State attractions will be featured in addition to synchronized programs.

LOS ANGELES HIT BY FREAK STORM

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 21.—Stock was being taken today of damage inflicted by a freak storm near here yesterday. A small "twister" uprooted trees, lightning damaged two houses slightly, hail damaged lettuce and other early crops and two waterspouts were observed off Santa Monica.

The fall of hail was particularly heavy at Hollywood and Glendale. About an inch of hail fell in both towns.

The "twister" at Santa Monica uprooted a number of trees and blew down numerous sign boards.

KALTENBAUGH, SLAYER OF TWO, IS ARRAIGNED

Pleads Not Guilty to Canal Fulton Murders.

TRIAL ON FEB. 18

Insanity Will be Defense in Canton Courtroom.

CANTON, O., Jan. 21.—"Eddie" Kaltenbaugh, confessed slayer of Mr. and Mrs. John Oser, of Canal Fulton, pleaded not guilty to first degree murder charges when arraigned before Judge A. W. Agler in common pleas court today. Trial date was set for February 18. His attorneys indicated insanity would be the defense.

The farmhand will be tried first for the murder of Mrs. Oser and should a verdict of not guilty be returned the state will immediately move for trial for the slaying of Mr. Oser. A jury venire of 75 will be drawn by Sheriff Ed. Gibson today.

Kaltenbaugh was examined yesterday by Dr. Arthur T. Hyde, superintendent of the State Hospital for the Insane at Massillon and Dr. J. D. O'Brien, of Canton.

Kaltenbaugh confessed that he killed Mr. and Mrs. Oser to obtain possession of their automobile in order to make an impression on a girl in New Castle, Pa.

PASTORS GO TO STATE MEET

Four-day Session Opens Today in Columbus.

Five East Liverpool ministers will attend the annual meeting of the Ohio Pastors' association which opened at Columbus today.

The Rev. Dr. W. O. Hawkins, of the First Methodist Episcopal church, and the Rev. J. W. Naramore, of the Orchard Grove Methodist Episcopal church and Wilson Smith, a layman from the former church, will leave for the convention Tuesday morning.

The Rev. Dr. Hawkins will attend a meeting of the committee having in charge the program for the annual meeting of the North-East Ohio conference which will be held at Cambridge next fall, while in Columbus tomorrow afternoon.

The local delegates will return to their homes Friday following adjournment of the convention Thursday afternoon.

SISTER RESCUES BOY FROM FIRE

AKRON, Jan. 21.—Junior Hinton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hinton, was rescued from a fire which swept their apartment early today by his sister Helen, 9. The children were asleep when a chemical tank in the basement exploded. The girl tried to lead her little brother through dense clouds of smoke to the front entrance. She was forced back and finally made her way through the rear door. The parents were absent at the time.

REPORT DECREASE IN FLU CASES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Indications that the influenza epidemic is on the wane were given in reports received by the health service today from Texas, Maryland and Iowa.

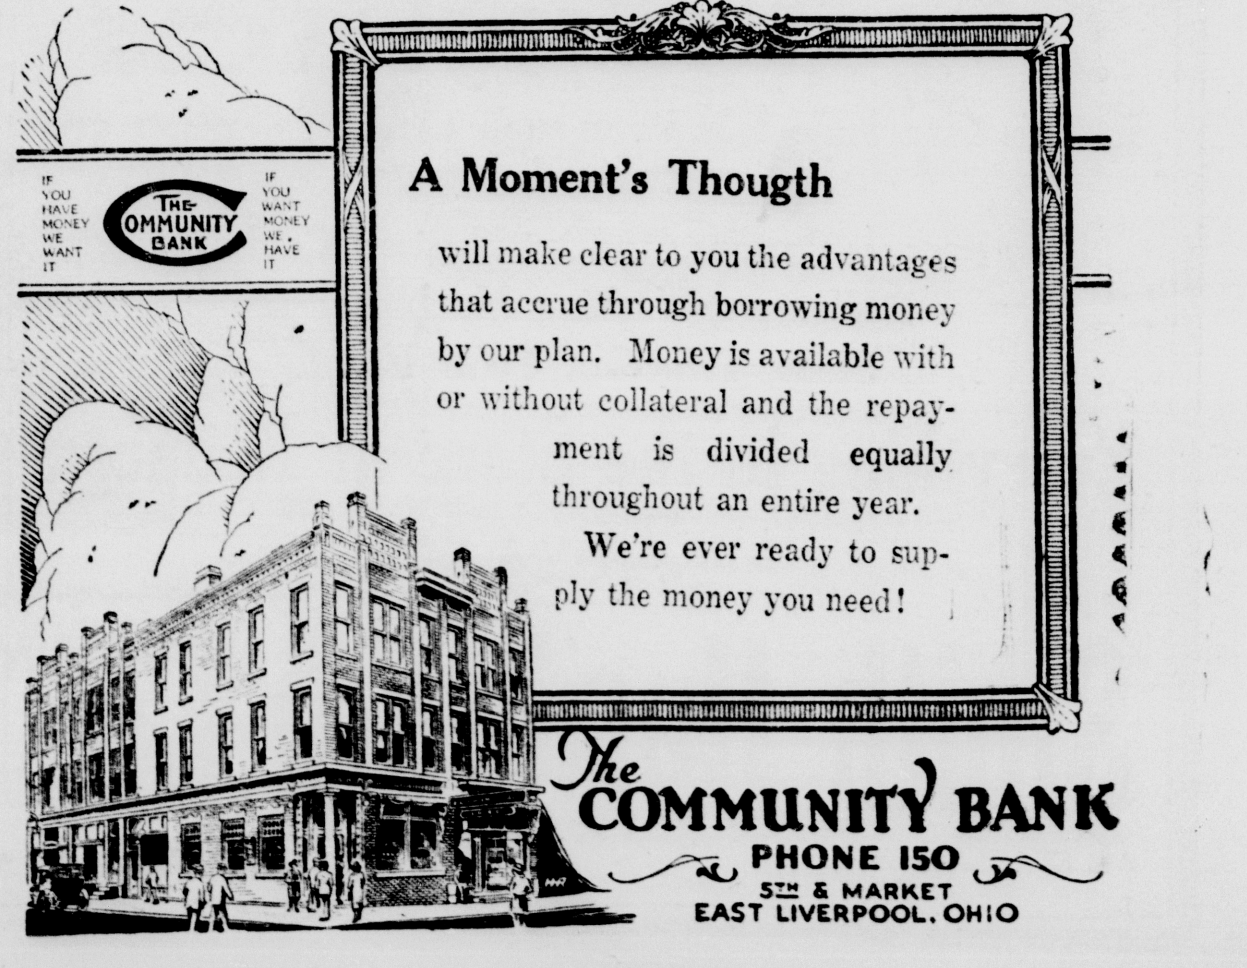

For the week ended January 19, Texas reported 1,886 cases, and Maryland reported 5,579—both representing sharp decreases from the previous week. Iowa reported there were virtually no cases.

Hatch Radio Service Company, Chester, Now Featuring the New Model 42, Atwater Kent

While the Atwater Kent line in general needs little introduction to radio fans of this community because its qualifications have long since been well established to be easily forgotten, it is not amiss now and then, says the Hatch Radio Service Co., to point out some of the many improvements that are constantly being made in this great set.

The Hatch Radio Service company, located in Fourth street and Carolina avenue, Chester, W. Va., features the entire Atwater Kent line, accessories and service.

Right at the present time they are taking considerable interest in the Model 42 all-electric model—more beautiful than ever. The set uses six alternating current tubes and one rectifying tube and is enclosed in a cabinet of beautiful, new design.

This all-electric model 42 is proving more and more popular here. Many people prefer it because of the built-in automatic line voltage control that protects A. C. tubes against the effects of excess current, and because of refinements in the design of this new cabinet... a new conception of radio beauty.

You can see the new Model 42, and hear it, as well as other models of the same line, at the Hatch Radio Service company, Fourth street and Carolina avenue, Chester. Their service is up-to-the-minute in every respect. They'll be glad to talk radio with you.

Save, Spend on Regular Basis

Do you save systematically or do you operate personal affairs on just a haphazard "income" and "outgo" which generally finds you getting along no further at all in the matter of accumulating money?

It's a cinch that your firm does not conduct its affairs this way. Why should you? You can easily be a part of the Hancock County Building & Loan association family — one of the many who realize that they and others are sharing in the satisfactory returns and the safety for their money which this institution provides.

The Hancock County Building & Loan association, renders a savings service that fits every pocketbook and the safety assured by the company is probably the biggest advantage of all. This association, with resources of more than $3,500,000, pays six per cent on all stocks.

You may make your deposits personally or you may mail them.

GOOD ROADS FEDERATION SUGGESTS $2,811,000 PROGRAM FOR SIX YEARS

Columbiana County
Completing Three-Year
Schedule Under $950,-
000 Bond Issue.

LISBON, O., Jan. 21.—The Ohio Good Roads Federation has suggested the expenditure of $2,811,000 for highway construction in Columbiana county during the next six years. This would mean an outlay of $468,333.33 annually.

Three years ago the electors approved a road bond issue of $950,000 and the last of these bonds will be issued this year. Coupled with federal and state aid funds, about $2,000,000 has been spent in this county for highway construction during the last few years.

Highways to be graded and surfaced this year will complete the program outlined before the $950,000 bond issue was approved. It has been the policy of the commissioners not to issue bonds until after a contract has been awarded, thus saving interest charge.

It will be several weeks before the commissioners announce the 1929 road construction program. Two surfacing contracts were awarded last year, the East Palestine-East Liverpool highway in St. Clair township and the Elkton-Clarkson road. Both projects were authorized under the $950,000 bond issue. Grading and surfacing of the Summitville-Kensington road will be the next job, it is believed.

PREPARES COUNTY HIGHWAY MAP

A county map which will designate all highways completed Jan. 1, is now being prepared by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk.

The map will show the recently opened Lisbon-Salineville, Clarkson highway, new East Liverpool-Youngstown roads and the East Palestine-East Liverpool highway to the Mid-dieton-St. Clair township line.

ENLARGE SEWER PIPE CO. PLANT

Three additional kilns have been added to the battery at the Lisbon plant of the American Vitreous Products company and the first of these will be fired this week. It is said the plant will be kept in continuous operation.

No time has been set for the resumption of work at the Excelsior Fire Clay company's plant, according to General Manager George Brandt. This plant closed in December. Orders are now being shipped from stock.

KOHN WILL FACE BURGLARY COUNT

Michael Kohn, near New Alexandria, East Rochester - North Georgetown road, charged before Justice of the Peace M. K. Zimmerman at Lisbon by Mary E. Somers of North Georgetown with breaking and entering her store on the night of Jan. 12 and stealing a quantity of cigars and cigarettes, will be arraigned tomorrow.

HEIM ACCEPTS YOUNGSTOWN POST

Phil E. Heim, former service manager for the Columbiana County Farm bureau, who resigned to accept a similar position in Michigan, has retired from the latter office and is now associated with the Carbon Limestone company of Youngstown as sales manager of the agricultural limestone division. Mr. Heim has moved from Michigan to Youngstown.

LISBON SCHOOLS CLOSE MAY 29

The Lisbon public schools will probably close on May 29 for the summer vacation. The date will be set at the next meeting of the board of education.

The rural schools will close in April and May.

Two Weddings Announced.
Ralph C. Stackhouse of Columbiana and Miss Nellie Brice of Kensington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brice, were married at Columbiana by the Rev. E. P. Weist.

Gilbert R. Evans of Youngstown, a salesman, and Miss Hilda D. Niedermier, a stenographer, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Niedermier, were married at Lisbon by the Rev. Jarvis M. Cotton of the Presbyterian church.

TWO QUIT POST IN DEATH QUIZ

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 20.—With the legislative probe completed into the death of Helen Askew, inmate of the State Welfare Home for Girls, Dr. Evelyn Frisbie, home physician, and Miss Bertha Lips, home superintendent, have submitted their resignations from their respective posts.

Dr. Frisbie, appearing before the legislative committee, declared she felt the girl had died from natural causes. She said that several other girls on previous occasions had been given injections of "twilight sleep" without serious effects. She testified that the girl was given the drug to quiet her when she rebelled against the bread and water diet, especially against the saltwater that was in the water.

KILL FLU

Germs Before
They Kill You

When flu germs get into your system they start right into kill you if they can.

So it's up to you to kill them before they kill you.

You can't kill them with Quinine or cough drops or hot lemonade or with cathartics.

But You Can Kill Flu Germs with Fluin—and Kill Them Quick.

Keep that fact in mind — it may save your life or the life of one dear to you.

Fluin should be in your home all the time—it is the one supremely reliable remedy for influenza.

Fluin is the one remedy that really does destroy the germs of flu—it is antibacterial and antitoxic and that's what is needed to fight the flu.

Thousands of European doctors prescribe Fluin for heavy colds and the flu—Keep some handy—a vial of 10 tablets for 50 cents at Carnahan's Drug Store or any real drug store. Adv.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO FLU

Coughs from Flu May Weaken Your System and Lead to Serious Trouble

You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by the greatest healing agencies as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble, and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion may help you avoid flu, but is not sold as a flu remedy. If you have fever, or think you may have the flu, see your doctor immediately. (adv.)

A Surprise Visit to the Old Folks

"HELLO, Mother, this is John. Where am I? I'm home, of course. Just thought I'd like to hear your voice..."

Surprising the old folks who are many miles away is just one element of the pleasure derived from an out-of-town telephone call. You reach them quickly and your voice carries as distinctly as if you were in the same room.

It's the nearest thing to a visit in person, and can be enjoyed at any time. The cost is lower than ever before and when you call by number you reach the distant point in a minute or so—while you hold the line.

Friends and family are always near, by telephone. Talk to them often—when-ever you have any news they'd appreciate hearing, whenever you want to hear from them.

The cost is surprisingly low—only 70 cents for a call by number during the day to a point 100 miles away. When you talk to places farther away, the cost is even lower, in proportion to the distance.

FIVE NAVY MEN 'DIE AS BARGE HITS LAUNCH

Collision Occurs on Pacific Side of Panama Canal.

FIND TWO BODIES

Gig Sinks Instantly, Carrying Occupants With it.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—An investigation was ordered today into the accident off the Pacific side of the Panama Canal yesterday in which five navy men lost their lives when a motor launch was struck by a barge.

The dead: Capt. Ralph M. Griswold, commander of the ninth destroyer squadron of the scouting fleet. Arthur S. Wrenn, pay clerk. Coxswain F. W. Schweineberg, West Orange, N. J. Fireman Earle D. Tibbitts, Haverhill, Mass. Seaman H. D. McDowell, Jacksonville, Fla.

The bodies of Griswold and Wrenn have been recovered. The accident occurred when Griswold and Wrenn, who had gone ashore on business, were returning to their ship in a captain's gig, manned by Schweineberg, Tibbitts and McDowell. The barge, in tow of the tug Mariner, struck the gig and sent it to the bottom instantly. The occupants had no time to escape. Griswold is survived by a wife and two daughters.

Four of every five phonographs in Guatemala were made in America.

American airplanes will be used on the proposed Brisbane-Sydney-Melbourne air service in Australia.

The old Story

The girl whose menstrual periods ever cause a broken day, simply hasn't heard about Midol. Menstruation is natural. But the pain is not! Midol will end menstrual pains in five to seven minutes.

This merciful discovery of the specialists is not a narcotic. It does nothing to hinder or hasten the process of menstruation. But it does end the painful part. If you anticipate your time the expected pain will not appear at all. Tiny tablets, in convenient little aluminum case, fifty cents at any drugstore. It is folly to suffer.—Adv.

Avoid Too Much Dosing For Flu Say Physicians

Its Toxins Upset Stomach and Constant Dosing Further Disturbs Digestion.

According to health authorities, a peculiarity of influenza is that its toxins upset the digestive system, especially in the case of children. Too much "dosing" still further disturbs the digestion, and should be avoided except on advice of a physician.

Vicks VapoRub is especially valuable because it is applied externally and so can be used freely with no risk of upsetting the digestion. Nor can it interfere with any other treatment your doctor may prescribe.

Rubbed on the throat and chest, Vicks acts two ways at once: (1) through the skin like a poultice, and (2) by means of its medicated vapors, released by body warmth and inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages.

In the present epidemic, as in 1918, Vicks is proving its usefulness in millions of homes. In spite of vastly increased capacity, it is again necessary to run the laboratories all night long, as the public now demands over 375,000 jars every 24 hours.—Adv.

JANET GAYNOR
"SUNRISE" STAR

FANNIE BRICE
IN SCREEN DEBUT

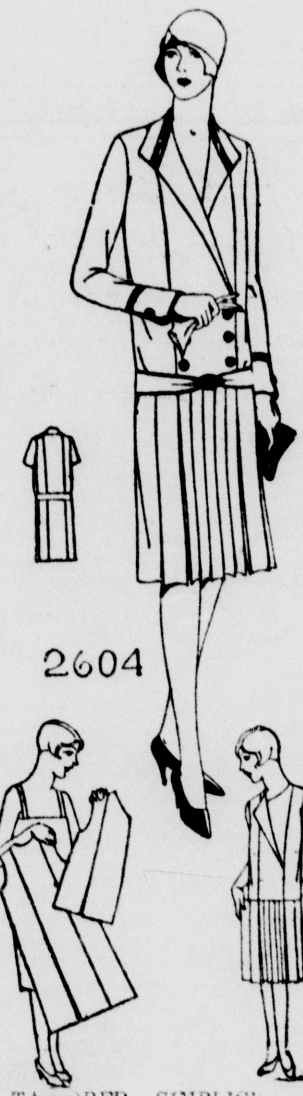

Admirers of winsome Janet Gaynor, the 20-year-old Fox star who made an instantaneous hit as Diane in "7th Heaven," will have another opportunity to see her in a captivating role when "Sunrise," the first picture made in this country by the noted European director, F. W. Murnau, opens at the Ceramic theater today for a three-day run.

"Sunrise" is the most important picture yet released by Fox Films and was produced with an especially selected cast headed by Miss Gaynor and George O'Brien. Great as was her triumph in "7th Heaven," her performance in "Sunrise" has been pronounced superior to anything she has previously done because it calls for a much wider range of histrionic ability and puts her to a test from which less competent stars would have withdrawn.

The acclaim which "Sunrise" received in such large measure in New York, Los Angeles, Berlin and Stockholm when it was first released, was not due entirely, however, to the work of its cast. The dramatic simplicity of the story and the phenomenal photography were equally responsible for the praise it received from the first critics who reviewed it.

HOME SEWING

By Annabel Worthington

TAILORED SIMPLICITY

Of course you will want this attractive dress in tailored coat styling, fitted with seams that follow the lines of the figure, to give it a swaggy sports air. The double-breasted bodice with deep rolled collar, combines with center grouped plaits of skirt to carry out a panel effect, to lengthen the silhouette. It is especially lovely made of sheer tweed, printed sheer velvet, velveteen, crepe, satin, bailla silk crepe, wool crepe printed jersey, plain jersey, crepe and homespun. The small diagrams show how utterly simple it is to make this fashionable dress with tailored finish, suitable for all-day wear, the choice of the smart New Yorker. Pattern for Style No. 2604 can be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust. Price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred).

In ordering patterns clip the design shown or order by number. Write your name and address plainly, enclosing 15 cents and mail to Fashion Department, East Liverpool Review. From 7 to 10 days are required for delivery of patterns.

"DO YOUR DUTY" ON STATE BILL

Charlie Murray rises from the ranks to a police lieutenant's stripes, is demoted and then wins back his chevrons in "Do Your Duty," the rollicking comedy that comes to the State theater today. It is a first National picture directed by William Beaudine and pretty Doris Dawson plays the feminine lead, with Charles Delaney opposite her.

Murray is framed by crooks in the story. He appears to have been drunk on duty and is demoted. Then he catches the crooks and regains his lost glory. But meanwhile his daughter is being married and he hides his temporary disgrace by subtle maneuvers. In the end he is absented by a Scotch tailor and finally wins out with nobody in his family the wiser.

There is some great "kid" comedy in this picture in addition to that supplied by the grownups in support of the star who is a fun host in himself.

Parents Happy When Baby Sleeps Soundly

Here's a way to soothe crying wakeful babies to sleep quickly and easily. It's the way doctors endorse, and millions of mothers have proved is safe and harmless. A few drops of pure vegetable, pleasant-tasting Fletcher's Castoria, has the most refreshing, restful baby or child asleep in a few minutes. And for colic, constipation, colds and upset spells, there's nothing like Castoria. The Chas. H. Fletcher signature is the mark of genuine Castoria. Avoid imitations and be safe.—Adv.

Hurstmen Outclass Marietta Quint In Auditorium Tilt, 34-22

Feit and Witherow Lead Drive Against Pioneers

Rattle Hoops for 21 Points as Blue and White Hangs up Third Straight Win; Visitors Trail All the Way.

East Liverpool high school basketball passers sent another Ohio Valley foe down to defeat Saturday night on the Public Auditorium floor when they scored a rather easy victory over the Marietta high school five by the score of 34 to 22.

From their strenuous battle with Steubenville on the Stubbers' floor the night before, the Hurstmen did not show the brand of basketball that they exhibited against Akron East, but even so, they put up an article of the cage sport that was too much for the Mariettians to cope with.

From the start to the finish, the combat was in East Liverpool's favor and although the lads from the Pioneer City played nice basketball and put forth their best efforts all the way they were outclassed.

The locals had the game in their hands right at the start, Davey Feit dropping in the first bucket. From then on the high kept in front, gradually increasing their lead as the game went on, playing mostly for time during the bigger part of the final quarter.

The Hurstmen outplayed and outscored the Washington county tossers in every quarter, Davey Feit and Rob Witherow leading the attack, while Curtis, the colored forward, was the only Mariettian who could solve the Blue and White defense. He made over half of Marietta's two-pointers.

Feit had the range on the baskets Saturday night, registering six double pointers for the Hurstmen's cause, besides playing a good floor game. The work of Lindell, Chetwin, Witherow and Menge is also worthy of special mention, all turning in a grade of the cage game that was far above the average. Small, Dyke, and McNutt also played right up to the hand, during the time they were in the contest. For the Marietta passers, Curtis was the star. Besides showing Hurst's starting lineup was Lindell, and Feit at the forwards; Chetwin at center, Menge and Witherow, guards. For the first few minutes neither team scored although both had a number of chances. Feit started the scoring when he sank a basket on a short shot on the side.

Purdue Leading Big Ten

Boilermakers Hold Slight Edge Over Two Rivals.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—With one-third of the playing schedule consumed and the race slowing up for the turn between semesters, three teams today stood out as principal challengers for this year's Big Ten basketball title.

Purdue, Michigan and Wisconsin: The Boilermakers take a slight edge over Michigan, because, while neither team has been defeated, Purdue has five games to her credit and Michigan only four. Wisconsin has won four and lost one.

Incidentally, the Boilermakers face probably their severest test of the season at home tonight when they "take on" the fast-stepping Badgers. Wisconsin, its followers hope, will have "just enough" to check the dizzy pace of the Purdue sharpshooters. The latter, in five games, have hung up the amazing total of 210 points.

The Boilermakers chalked up their fifth successful win Saturday night in the annual state cage feud with Indiana. The score was 9 to 23. Other results Saturday were:

Northwestern 28, Iowa 27.
Illinois 22, Chicago 19.
Wisconsin 39, Minnesota 17.
Michigan and Ohio State were not scheduled.

Iowa and Ohio State, each with two victories and two defeats, are still conceded a fighting chance for the title, but the other five teams—Northwestern, Illinois, Indiana, Chicago and Minnesota, are pretty definitely "out."

The only other Big Ten clash scheduled for tonight brings together Indiana and Minnesota at Bloomington. On Saturday, one more game will be played—Iowa at Chicago.

Explains Row Over Walker

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 21.—Jack Kearns, manager of Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, today was scheduled to arrive here to confer with Chas. F. Traung, boxing commissioner. Two local promoters are rowing over the services of Walker and Kearns is expected to explain to Traung the mix-up, if any, concerning his dealings with the two promoters.

Babe Reported to be "Hitting" $245,000 in Financial League

Give Him Five More Years and He'll Quit With Million, Say Friends; Baseball Not His Only Source of Revenue.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Babe Ruth, once the big clay pigeon man for the American sharpshooters, is such a sap with his money nowadays that, if he survives another five years of real stardom, he will quit baseball with a million dollars, it was declared today by the boy's friends' intimates. The latter also stood as authority for a statement that Ruth hadn't spent a dollar of his $70,000 baseball salary for the two years the contract has run and that his bank account, tied up in a trust fund, amounts to not less than $245,000. Before they got through, they gave me the unfortunate impression that the young man has been spending only a lot of his time.

But it seemed that I was wrong again with my customary brilliance. It was declared that he was paying $100,000 a year for the right to live and still had enough residue to send his $70,000 baseball salary along to the head keeper without a second look. Baseball, it appears, has become only one source of revenue among many.

The so-called testimonial racket, I am told, pays almost as well and the hours are shorter. Barnstorming, pictures and vaudeville, newspaper articles and Wall Street also have contributed with sufficient generosity to leave this gentleman eking out an existence from a yearly income of about $200,000, according to my trusted advisers.

Has Many Side Lines.

Yes, the young man has had his fling in the street and has made it pay him. Maybe it hasn't paid much but, if they have to pay at all down there, you are a big winner.

That stuff, of course, is hit or miss. The rest of it is hit and score, standing up. There are no blanks for Ruth in the barnstorming thing. He simply goes out there in uniform every day for thirty days after the close of the season.

JUNIOR PASSERS TO BE ORGANIZED

MIDLAND, Pa., Jan. 19.—Della Vail, director of boys' physical education at the Lincoln high school and W. A. Werschinski, faculty manager of athletics, have been busy organizing basketball teams among the boys of the classes of the Junior high school.

It is hoped to start a junior high basketball league, which would provide interclass games and games as preliminaries to the Varsity tilt. More than 40 boys have reported. Many of these never had a basketball in their hands before and the training received in the practice periods will add each lad to be a better player when he enters the senior high classes.

A schedule has not been arranged for the Junior boys. But it is hoped that they might secure some games to be played as preliminaries to the high school contests.

POMEROY STAR SEEKS RECORD

POMEROY, O., Jan. 21.—Winebrenner, six-foot-two center of Pomero high school basketball team, is after a record. In the last two games played against Gallipolis and Middleport he scored 32 points. The opposing centers were held scoreless, another unusual if not unique event in basketball.

Arabia is developing motor transportation.

Ramsey In Local Lineup

Nate Lippe, Another Pittsburgher, Here Wednesday.

FORTIFIED by the addition of Nate Lippe and George Ramsey, outstanding basketball stars of the Pittsburgh district, the East Liverpool basketball club Wednesday night will clash with the Sherer Soda Grills, Canton's representative road club, in the public Auditorium court.

Announcement of the signing of Ramsey and Lippe was made today by Manager Earl Greenwalt of the East Liverpool club.

Lippe needs no introduction to East Liverpool fans in view of his many previous performances with Pottery City court aggregations. Ramsey himself needs little, as well, for there are few court fans who do not know of this individual's performances with the famed Merryds of Pittsburgh.

With these two basket sharks in the lineup, together with the local stars, the East Liverpool club should produce a brilliant performance against the Stark countians.

In the semifinal to the main event the Brian Clothiers, who defeated Newell high school a week ago, will tangle with the Industrial Aces of East Palestine.

POTTERS GET JUMP IN FIRST PERIOD

A GAIN Davey came into the limelight when he dropped in a beauty from mid floor. Curtis made Marietta's first score when he tossed in a one-hand overhead shot. Menge made good on a charity chance. Chetwin also made good on a free chance, and Witherow made the score 8 to 2 by tossing two more free points. After missing four chances from the foul line, Kelley, Marietta forward, made good on the fifth one, the score being 8 to 3 in the Hurstmen's favor at the end of the first quarter.

Witherow made the first bucket in the second period. Kelley sank his only basket of the game. Witherow and Feit hit the cords for field goals, giving the locals a comfortable lead. Liston bagged a field basket and Dutton, who substituted for Grey, cashed in on a free throw, making the score 18 to 10, East Liverpool, for the first time.

EPWORTH'S DOWN POTTER SECONDS

In a preliminary to the East Liverpool-Marietta scholastic contest Saturday night on the Auditorium court, the Epworth League five of the Wellsville Methodist Episcopal church nosed out the local high school Reserves, 29 to 28. Calhoun's field goal from the center of the floor in the last 39 seconds of play deciding the issue.

The game was interesting and developed a lot of excitement in the last five minutes. The Reserves had held the lead most of the time until the closing minutes when the visitors wrestled it away from them. Pierson's field goal brought it back to the Blue again. The Reserves then decided on a waiting game but Calhoun got his hands on the ball and flung it from midcourt. The shot clicked and the leagueurs won.

Calhoun probably was the "turning point" of the game. Prior to the entrance of the former Wellsville high school star, the locals were out in front but the big fellow proved a tower of strength for the Epworths in the closing canto.

Newell Splits Double Bill At Irondale

Boys Hang up Seventh Win; Girls Defeated In Prelim.

Giving them seven wins in eight starts, Newell high school five defeated Irondale passers Saturday night on the Irondale court in a hard fought contest, rather rough at times. The score was 14-12.

The Newell girls lost to the Irondale lasses in the preliminary 18 to 12. Inability to locate the basket in the first half, in which they were outscored, 12 to 3, cost the visitors the game.

Staats led the scoring for Newell with seven points. Gregory and Lavee also played brilliantly at the guards.

Y BOYS LAUNCH TOURNAMENT EVENTS

The Y. M. C. A. boys' tournaments opened last Friday when the "Prep" group competed in the standing broad jump. Edward Weigle, of the Chevrolet team, took first place; Jack Trotter, Ford, was second; Charles Burke, Ford, third; Malcolm Bolles, Chevrolet, fourth; James Hassall, Chevrolet, fifth. The teams are tied thus far, each aggregation amassing 51 points in the first meeting.

On Saturday morning, the Elementary and Junior groups held their first events. The Elementary division competed in the 60-yard potato race, with the following results: First, Robert Baxter, Buick; second, Joseph Weston, Buick; third, Junior Mast, Dodge; fourth, Rigby Mast, Dodge; fifth, Cloyd Duff, Buick. The teams scores are Dodge 35; Buick 26.

The running high jump was the event for the Juniors. Richard Stewart, Reo, won first place with Charles Brant, Paige, second; Richard Hall, Reo, third; Willard Weaver, Reo, fourth; John Craig, Paige fifth. The Reo team scored 60 points and the Paige 41 points during the session. Bible classes for each group preceded the athletic events on the gymnasium floor. Similar events will be held on Friday.

Dinnerless Diners

The two principal public rooms of the Splendide were the lounge and restaurant. They lay side by side, separated by a wall of glass, and they were both vast and both ultra or super-gorgeous. Every square foot of their walls and ceilings was decorated with the last extreme of ornateness in either oils, fresco, mosaic, porphyry, gilt or bronze. On the ceiling alone, of the lounge were depicted, in various mediums, over seventy slim and beautiful young women in a high state of physical development and chiefly in the fashion of Eden, perilously tasting the dubious society of thirty or forty fauns and satyrs whose moral code seemed to illustrate the joyous effrontery of a past age and who had no preoccupations about rates, taxes, bad weather or class-warfare. The colors of this ideal world were rich, fresh and brilliant, for it was only in the previous year that the designers had finished spending two million lire in the creation of the Splendide, which was meant to respond, and indeed did respond, to the secret aspirations of the elite of Cincinnati, Leeds, Buenos Aires, Philadelphia Bath and Boston (Mass.).

From the lounge, through the gilded crystal partition, could be seen the equally opulent restaurant, full of tables richly set with papery, cutlery, glass and flowers, and perambulated by many restless waiters. And not one diner at any of the tables, though the hour was after half past eight!

While the forlorn restaurant held waiters but no guests, the lounge held guests but no waiters. Twenty-three guests were congregated together in the middle of the huge parqueted floor upon which, on normal evenings, they were accustomed to dance. A small number for so large a hotel, but the season had scarcely started; moreover, the Splendide much depended for its customers upon the arrival and departure of trans-Atlantic and trans-Mediterranean steamships and no important boat had arrived or departed now for several days. The present guests were chiefly not mere migrants but steady supporters of the hotel and the city, whose purpose was to stay, and see, and leave quantities of good money behind them. Of the twenty-three, fifteen were Americans, five English, and the rest of doubtful origin; seventeen were women and the rest men. Their anxious and perturbed demeanor was in dismal contrast with that of the gaudy, carefree inhabitants of the ceiling kingdom overhead.

The Gentleman of Zest.

Alone among them a tall, dark, massive, romantic gentleman of 40 years or so seemed to be enjoying life. He was fat, and it might have been said that the pores of his stretched skin, being open, exuded gaiety and that gaiety escaped frothing from his lips. As, lightly, with little mincing steps of his small toes, he moved about gesticulating and chatting with an inner group of ladies, he had the air of being continuously animated by a private and particular zest of his own. His manner was easy and affable to the point of patronage, for he knew that he was adored.

Suddenly this gentleman noticed afar off, in one of the arched entrances to the great lounge, a solitary hesitant individual in a tweed suit.

"Ha!" exclaimed the gentleman of zest. "Ha!" he called out, more loudly, smiling as it were secretly to himself.

And all the company turned and gazed at the individual under the arch, inimically and yet with respect. His tweed suit, exhibited at such an hour in such a place as the lounge of the Splendide, of course offended the sense of propriety of every swallow-tail, dinner-jacket and evening frock on the floor. Also, the company beheld a man who, during the fortnight of his mysterious stay in the hotel, had systematically, by the blank repudiating look on his superior face, discouraged the advance of those who, who liked to be sociable and who resented a repudiating look. The man indeed had not exchanged a word with a single soul in the hotel, servants excepted. Why was he in the hotel at all? He seemed never to indulge in any of the usual and proper sight-seeing excursions. Who was he? Nobody knew anything about him, beyond his name. What justification had he for being so stand-offish? ... Nevertheless the company had respect for the man, if only because he was so strictly loyal to the dying British tradition of keeping oneself to oneself. And further, the company somewhat pitied him for the shyness and diffidence which obviously were mingled with his amazing self-complacency.

The man thus criticized was Septimius, who had been to the managerial offices and found them deserted. The gaze of the crowd certainly incommode him and made him wish for the gift of invisibility. Like most persons, however, Septimius had not one mind, but quite a number of minds. And while in one of his minds he felt abashed, in another of his minds he was saying: "What an ignorant lot they are. They don't guess that I once stroked Cambridge. They don't guess that I was once called to the bar. They haven't a suspicion in their silly heads that I am the Sutherland, Septimius Sutherland, who abandoned the Bar for finance and became something of a power in the City and richer and more important than anybody else in this hotel, I lay. Probably they've never heard of Septimius Sutherland. It hasn't occurred to them that I'm here on what's called 'big business'—indeed the biggest, and that I've been taking risks that would frighten the boldest of 'em. And won't? And won't? Well, it amuses me—their ignorance does. And it amuses me to look a bit bashful and awkward. What do I care, really? Fact is, I rather like being taken for a nobody by nobodies."

"You know what's happened?" And still another of his minds held the thought: "I may be the great Septimius Sutherland, but I am also a perfect fool! It's a holy nuisance to be self-conscious like this."

He kept a tactical silence.

"You know what's happened, of course," the gentleman of zest proceeded.

"I do not," Mr. Sutherland replied, bland, amiable, and now rather less self-conscious under the bombardment of stares. After all, he was not unaccustomed to handling shareholders of limited companies at annual meetings.

Because he did not care to talk across a great empty space of floor he unwillingly advanced toward the crowd in the center of the lounge. The gentleman of zest went to meet him.

Mr. Sutherland had no previous occasions taken this individual for a foreigner, but his English was impeccably that of Kensington.

"A strike in the kitchens?" explained the gentleman of zest, and his eyes seemed to ooze forth from him. Apparently he saw in the situation a rich and juicy humor that he thought nobody else could see. He paused and looked humorously at the floor, as if sharing the joke with the parquet. Then: "Or perhaps not a strike, because strikes are forbidden by law in this country. But at any rate an omission to work. Some trouble with the management. Plenty of cold food in the kitchens, but the waiters will not serve it. Sympathetic inaction no doubt. Hence we are all hungry with no prospect of a dinner. I am Count Veruda."

Septimius felt a great relief. He had been vaguely suspecting, upstairs some kind of a machination against himself, a powerful man whom unprincipled opponents might find it convenient to put away. He now saw that the machination, if any, was directed against all the guests equally. Moreover, the performance of the incomprehensible floor-waiter upstairs stood explained. Septimius pleasantly savored the situation.

"I see," Septimius repeated, quite at ease. "Now sup the manager?"

"Ha!" said Count Veruda. "The manager has prudently disappeared."

"I see," Septimius repeated, quite at ease. "Now supposing we went into the kitchens and fetched this food for ourselves?" Already he had begun to scheme out the organization of such a raid.

"I am told by the maitre d'hotel who is entirely on our side, that that might cause really serious complications."

"I see," said Septimius, for the third time. "But there are restaurants in the city."

"Not a good one. And we could hardly go in a body to any one restaurant. We should burst it. And as for going separately, many single ladies would not care to venture on such a course—in a town like this." The Count smiled within and without, and his body seemed to vibrate with rich fun.

"There are other hotels."

To Explore Zimbabwe Ruins

Confident that somewhere within area embraced by the famous Zimbabwe ruins, near Zambezi, in Southern Rhodesia, is buried the secret of the lost mines of King Solomon, Miss Gertrude Caton-Thompson (inset), brilliant Englishwoman, has started upon a two years' exploration of the ancient city. The photo above shows a portion of the disintegrating "great kraal," located in the lee of the Acropolis, or fortified hill, which rises above the ruins.

ANNIE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

If you happen to be with a girl friend who knows a boy that you don't know, and just don't thing to introduce us, is it proper to speak to him if you see him on the street or any place? After he had acted very friendly while we were with our friend and he?

P. C. AND P. C.

Unquestionably, if you have been introduced to the young man it would be quite improper to speak to him. Your friend should not have been so thoughtless as to fail to introduce the young man when you met.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl seventeen and madly in love with the boy across the street. My father doesn't like him, so he won't let the boy come to see me, so we go and meet in the movies or the drug store. He's a fine boy and says he loves me and I love him. Do you think I would be foolish to marry him right away? He doesn't make enough money, but I work in a store, so I guess we could live on that money for awhile, don't you? I have a friend in the same mix-up and we think if the fellows would get all right, they would turn out all right!

SEVENTEEN.

I wouldn't advise you to do such a foolish thing, my dear. It might turn out all right, but the chances are all against it. Your father must have some ground for his dislike of the young man—probably he thinks you are too young. So don't think of doing anything foolish. You are young and have plenty of time to think seriously of settling down.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am going with a fellow. I have gone with him about five months. He is eighteen years of age. I am nearly fifteen. I'll be fifteen in March. Do you think I am too young to go with fellows? Do you think he is too old for me? I am considered good-looking. So is my friend. Please answer this at once, for I want to know.

BABE.

If your parents approve of your going about with young men then it is quite proper. And I don't think there is too great a difference in your ages.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens and have liked a boy in our school, but do not know what to do or say to get acquainted with him. He often looks at me and smiles when we change classes or out side, but never speaks. Please give me advice how to get to know him, and please answer as soon as possible. WAITING.

Surely in the school you must have some mutual acquaintances who could bring about an introduction. This is probably the best way of meeting him, although the informality of school life countenances your speaking in a friendly way to your schoolmates.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am in love with a young man who I think loves me in return. He seems very nice to me. He is very bashful, or backward. He does not like to be teased. What shall I do to make him show his love for me to other people.

WORRIED LOVER.

Don't be foolish! Any public display of affection is in very poor taste, my dear, and as the young man is sensitive, don't attempt to force him to do anything against his wishes. This is the surest way of losing him.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl 21 years old. About a year ago I met a young man about my own age, and went with him for about four months.

Just a few days ago I heard from a friend of mine that this young man had been seriously ill for some time. Naturally, I felt bad, and, after hesitating awhile, decided to call his mother and find out how he was. Do you think it was proper for me to call? Do you think it would be all right for me to send him flowers, with wishes for his speedy recovery?

MARY ANN.

Perfectly proper for you to call and most thoughtful to send him the flowers, or magazines, or books.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

1. How old should a girl be before she should go out with men? My parents are not living, so I work for a private family. I have a lovely room across the hall from the kitchen.

2. Is it proper to entertain my boy friend in my room while I put my hat and coat on?

3. I go with two boys and they are very jealous of one another, they want me to go "steady" with them and I like them both alike. What shall I do?

BROWN EYES.

Really, there is no set age at which a girl begins to have men friends. Of course, 18 is more or less accepted as the proper age for a girl to commence her social life.

2. Hardly proper. It might be as well to let him wait for you outside. While there is probably nothing wrong in the action, it might be misconstrued.

9. Just pay no attention to the jealousy and be friendly toward them both. In time you probably will meet THE man, and then all this will fade into oblivion.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

2— In Memoriam

In loving memory of Our Dear Mother Mrs. Eliza Townley, who died three years ago yesterday, January 20, 1926.
Her weary hours, her days of pain,
Her weary nights are passed,
Her ever patient worn out frame
Has found sweet rest at last.
But when a Mother breathes her last farewell
The stroke means more than tongue can tell.
The world seems quite another place
Without the smile of Mother's face.
Sadly missed by her Sons, Daughters and Grandchildren.
